President Says Atomic Talks 'Encouraging'

Eisenhower Adds Time Is Too Soon to Say Whether Soviets Are Acting in Good Faith

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today this country's preliminary atomic talks with Russia are encouraging, but it is too soon to tell whether the Soviets are acting in good faith.

His reference to the atomic talks, which were an outgrowth of his proposal for an international atomic energy pool for peaceful purposes, came at a news conference in which the President also discussed important domestic issues.

On the controversial farm program which he submitted to Congress last Monday, Eisenhower declared he believes it is workable and practicable. As to whether it is politically feasible in this election year, the President said we'll find out about that later, but that he is convinced the program for a switch to flexible price supports is right.

It's Up to Congress

On his labor law proposal for a system of government-conducted elections among employes on the question of striking, the President said he would leave to Congress whether such votes should come before or after a strike has begun.

Eisenhower said that in making the recommendation as part of his plan for amending the Taft-Hartley Act he was trying to establish a principle. He said he purposely avoided spelling out details because that is the province of Congress.

The President also:

1. Said Secretary of State Dulles was only stating a fundamental truth when he declared in a speech last night that the United States has made a basic decision to meet any future Communist aggression by relying primarily on instant massive retaliation.

2. Laughed off an effort to find out whether he intends to seek a second term. His political friends, Eisenhower added, have advised him never to deal with that subject.

3. Expressed confidence that the United States is achieving better balance in its defense forces every day.

Not for Poor Treaties

4. Said regarding the controversial Bricker amendment on treaty making powers, that he never would subscribe to any treaty or agreement which in any way contravened the Constitution. He indicated, however, that he and Sen. Bricker (R.-Ohio), chief sponsor of the proposed constitutional amendment, have not been able to agree on a compromise.

5. Reported he had been advised by the Agriculture Department that it knows of no plan under consideration to sell butter and cottonseed oil to Russia. The whole matter of foreign trade is under study, the President said, and he will announce his recommendations later.

Government sources reported last night that a private exporter has applied for permission to sell surplus butter and cottonseed oil to Russia and a Soviet satellite and that the proposal was under preliminary study at the Commerce Department. That department has the responsibility for licensing exports.

6. Declined again to give a breakdown on the 2,200 government workers he said previously had been separated from federal jobs for security reasons. He said he believes a great number of the 2,200 probably resigned even before they knew there was any

Allies, Red Officers to Hold Parley

Will Be First Action Toward Resumption of Talks to Set Up Peace Conference

Panmunjom, Jan. 13 (AP)—U. S. Envoy Kenneth Young said today allied and Red liaison officers will meet tomorrow in the first step toward resuming talks to set up a Korean peace conference—apparently on Red terms.

The Communists asked Monday for the low-level meeting — but only to discuss a date for reopening preliminary talks broken off Dec. 12 by the United States.

The allies replied Tuesday with a note asking that the staff officers discuss both date and conditions for resuming the conference. The Reds answered with a new note Wednesday.

When he first announced that the officers would meet Young said they would discuss the conditions.

Text Not Released

He did not release the text of the Red note, but paraphrased it this way: "(The Reds) agree to a meeting . . . to agree on the date for political discussions regarding a political (peace) conference."

When asked later about the absence of the word "conditions" in the paraphrase, Young said the latest Red note did not mention "conditions," but only the time of the meeting.

Peiping radio said earlier the Communist liaison officers were prepared to discuss only the date and not conditions for resuming the preliminary talks. Peiping said:

"The only condition required to reopen the discussion is that the Americans come back to the conference table. There can be no other condition . . ."

When U. S. Ambassador Arthur Dean broke off the preliminary talks in December after six weeks of haggling, he said he would not meet with the Reds again unless they retracted a charge of American "perfidy (treachery)."

No Apology Indicated

The Reds have given no indication they will apologize but sources here have indicated the United States might accept something less than a full retraction in order to get the talks started again.

Young said Tuesday this is one of the things the liaison officers would have to "work out."

Meanwhile, the Korean Repatriation Commission prepared to meet Thursday on a secret Indian proposal reportedly designed to solve the touchy issue of releasing war prisoners by turning them back to the commands that formerly held them.

A high source at Panmunjom said the Indian plan would declare the commission has failed through no fault of its own, would give the 22,500 POWs back to the side that held them and would stipulate that if either side releases them the commission is not responsible.

The allies demand that all prisoners be released after midnight of Jan. 22 under the armistice terms. The Reds insist they be held until a peace conference can discuss their fate.

Admiral Blandy Dies

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Adm. William H. P. Blandy, 63, a veteran of two world wars, died late yesterday at the St. Albans Naval Hospital here. Blandy suffered a stroke Sunday at his Manhattan home. He retired in 1950 after three years as commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Fleet. Blandy commanded the first joint army-navy atomic test force at Bikini in 1946. Blandy, born in New York, graduated from Anapolis at the head of his class in 1913.

Two Plans Are Tabled At Session

$100,000 Fund Passes for Anticipation Notes Pending Collection of Levies

Common Council action last night approved a city budget setting $1,708,189.06 as the amount to be raised by taxes and fixing a 1954 tax rate of $53.76.

The aldermen also authorized $100,000 in tax anticipation notes to finance the city pending collection of taxes, but tabled for the third time, action on requests from the Board of Public Works for a bond issue of $125,000 for street construction and one of $73,265.90 for machinery and equipment.

A party vote of eight to five adopted the budget, the Democratic aldermen contending that none of the budget-cutting suggestions made at the public hearing last Dec. 28 were considered and the Republicans arguing that the suggestions were broad statements without specific, practical and economic value toward a lower tax rate.

No Committee Report

No committee report was received on the BPW requests, but talk among the aldermen during a recess indicated that the city's closeness to its bonded debt limit was a factor for further consideration.

Alderman James K. Ryan, 10th ward, indicated that he was prepared to show, if the proposals came out of committee last night, that the two BPW bond issues, if granted at this time, would leave the city only $54,000 above the bonded debt limit, and this, he considered not safe enough for the city until such time as other bonds are paid off. Ryan is a member of the finance committee.

Was Recessed Session

Last night's session was recessed from a week ago when the aldermen tabled nearly everything on the docket after long committee conferences.

Alderman Ryan began his minority report on the budget by suggesting that instead of a $50 bonus city employes should have been given $120 a year per person, and he argued that had the administration conducted the city's affairs in "a proper and business-like manner," there would have been enough funds "to provide adequate increases without overburdening the taxpayers."

The 1952 estimated surplus, Ryan contended, was $44,000, "when actually it was closer to $25,000." The estimated 1953 deficit, he said, was $34,799.34 and then he contended, the total figure for this series of miscalculations is about $53,799.34.

Provides Payment

Ryan said he also noted that the budget provides for payment of a note identified as unexpected expenses, issued on Nov. 19, 1953 for $25,999.66. This, he contended, "apparently is a loan made for expenditures not provided for in the 1953 budget and in excess of expenditures therein authorized."

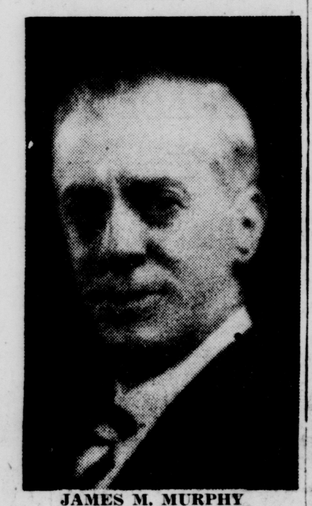

This, he said, he considered unbusinesslike, and he felt that these items could have provided funds for reasonable salary increases to city employes. The budget, he said contains items which should be either deleted or omitted.

Alderman Charles Cole (D) 13th ward, considered the budget "a splendid example of pre-campaign municipal financing," and he estimated that the actual de-

One of County's Oldest Morticians Dies at Benedictine

JAMES M. MURPHY

James M. Murphy, one of Ulster county's oldest morticians, whose father opened a funeral parlor here in 1872, died Tuesday night at the Benedictine Hospital after an illness of two weeks. He was 74.

The well-known funeral director was stricken after supervising a burial, and was ordered to the hospital by his physician. Although he maintained his usual high spirit, he grew weaker daily until death occurred last night.

Mr. Murphy conducted his own funeral home at 176 Broadway for 38 years, after returning from New York where he was associated with the New York Edison Corp. for some years.

In the early period of his business, he had a partner, Edward Scherer, one of this section's legendary baseball pitchers, who is in critical condition at the Benedictine Hospital himself.

Prior to going to New York, Mr. Murphy was with his father, John J. Murphy, who established a funeral parlor in the downtown part of the city 82 years ago. His mother was Roseann Smith Murphy of Kingston.

A brother, the late Nicholas D. J. Murphy, was also connected with the father whose business he continued after the death of his parent.

Embalmer Over 50 Years

Born in Kingston, Mr. Murphy attended the old Christian Brothers Academy that formerly adjoined St. Mary's Church, and was a member of the congregation with his family all his life. He prepared for his profession at Renouard Training School for Embalmers, New York, from which he received his certificate more than a half century ago.

Electrol Rumor Denied at Plant

A report that Electrol Incorporated, 85 Grand street, this city, had been incorporated into Republic Aviation Corporation, was flatly denied Tuesday afternoon by Victor E. Fletcher, vice president of the corporation.

The report was "unfounded" Fletcher said and added that it apparently was one of several rumors in circulation. He said Electrol Incorporated was an independent corporation with no connection with any other company and its only connection with Republic was as a customer of Electrol products.

Fletcher reported that the number of persons employed at the plant had been reduced since the close of the Korean war when upwards of 850 had been employed. The reduction in employment he said was "normal" with the peak war work over and the resumption of peacetime activities.

More Than 12,000 Men Toil At New York's Slush, Snow

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—More than 12,000 men, working in bitter cold, continued to hack away today at the frozen snow and slush which has made driving in many of the city's streets hazardous.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 14 degrees. It had risen three degrees from the seasonal low of 11, recorded at 4:35 a. m. today.

The previous low of the winter, 12.8 degrees, was recorded early Monday morning, in the midst of the 10-inch snowstorm, the worst here in five years.

Forecasters at the U. S. Weather Bureau predicted continued cold today, with a high near 25. The low tonight again was expected to be between 10 and 15.

The forecasters said it would not be quite so cold tomorrow, predicting a high temperature near 30. The slight temperature rise would result from southerly winds, the bureau said.

With most of the city's side streets still covered by snow and ice, Sanitation Commissioner Andrew W. Mulrain ordered 12,300 men to resume their snow removal chores.

Approximately 2,500 of the department's 8,000 employes were instructed to make garbage collections today. Emergency workers were hired to take their places in clearing the snow.

The Automobile Club of New York reported the city's major arteries had been cleared, but there were some ice-covered patches.

Suburban highways also were clear, the club said, with the same reservations as to icy spots. Normal speeds on most of the highways leading to the city were resumed.

Route 9W, running north through New Jersey and New York state from the George Washington Bridge, was reported hazardous, with many spots covered by ice.

The Transit Authority said subways and elevated trains were running on time.

Idlewild and LaGuardia Airports were operating normally.

Dulles Will Meet Soviets in Berlin

Secretary of State Pledged Against Deal to Split World With Reds

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles will meet the Russians in Berlin soon firmly pledged against any deal to divide the world between the rule of of Moscow and that of the western powers.

There is no plan for a "partnership division of world power with those who suppress freedom," the secretary said last night in an address to the Council of Foreign Relations here.

Reviewing Eisenhower administration work in foreign and security affairs during its first year and taking a quick look at the future, Dulles made these basic points:

Future Diplomacy

Future diplomacy—The United States, Britain and France will negotiate at Berlin for the unification of Germany and the liberation of Austria. The aim is to "advance the cause of human welfare."

The way to a cold war victory—If the free nations devote themselves to promoting freedom, they will effectively demonstrate its advantages to people behind the Iron Curtain, thus offering "our greatest hope" for solution of the Soviet problem. Dulles said there is now even within Russia, a test

Fowler Elected Commerce Leader

Attorney Succeeds Kaplan; Others Are Named by Chamber

Attorney N. Jansen Fowler was elected president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce last night at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

He succeeds Adrian Kaplan, who will continued to serve as vice-president on the executive committee.

Clarence H. Buddenhagen and J. Ellis Briggs were also elected vice-presidents and DeWeese W. DeWitt treasurer.

Officers were elected unanimously when the slate was presented by Lawrence A. Quilty as chairman of the nominating committee.

Mayor Frederick H. Stang attended his first board meeting as an ex-officio member and took an active part in the discussions. Robert MacKinnon, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, was also present as an ex-officio member.

New Directors Attend

This organization meeting was the first to be attended by the recently elected directors. Those present included Harold H. Baltz, Floyd W. Flint, John H. Haulenbeek, K. Edward Lefren and Harry Rigby, Jr. Two new directors, George L. Chilson and Ber-

Ordinances Drawn To Protect Young

Council Moves to Protect Children From Boxes, Excavations

The Common Council last night acted to protect the city's children from the dangers of abandoned or unprotected refrigerators, wells and cisterns along with other excavations and openings.

Separate ordinances were drafted for the refrigerator and cistern proposals and were supported unanimously in the voting but some of the Democrats said they were in favor of including dangerous and abandoned buildings. This, it was decided, could be done later.

It was a night of new ideas in the council in the midst of action on the budget and other proposals which normally come up this early in the year.

Alderman Charles Cole 13th ward, proposed the raising of additional funds through a levy on building permits, Alderman Ryan offered a resolution proposing the opening of each council meeting with a prayer by a member of the city's clergy.

IBM Is Welcomed

A resolution by Ryan and Relyea, said in effect, that since IBM is definitely coming to the Kingston area, and since 1954 marks the 40th anniversary of Thomas J. Watson, Sr., as "the leader of this company," it is "fitting for the City of Kingston, at this time to sincerely welcome the IBM, and to congratulate Mr. Watson on 40 years of extremely able direction of the affairs of that organi-

Former Golden Rule Inn Contained 40 Rooms —2 Companies Fight Blaze

The 40-room, three story and basement Mirror Lake Hotel, once widely known as Golden Rule Inn at Ulster Park, was destroyed by fire which broke out shortly after noon Tuesday. The building was located just off route 9W along the shore of Mirror Lake. There was no estimate of damage.

Flames spread quickly through the former frame building that had been faced with brick in more recent years.

Volunteer firemen from Esopus and Port Ewen pumped water from nearby Mirror Lake to bring the blaze under control, but were unable to save the building because of the headway gained by the fire.

Fighting the blaze in the near zero weather presented a difficult task. Volunteers and members of the auxiliary served firemen with hot coffee.

No one was reported hurt in the fire. The building is owned by Kusti Makelin, who lives there with his family of six. In addition, there were six roomers at the time of the fire, and all of them were at work, according to State Trooper John Metzer, BCI and County Identification Officer Earl Conro.

Was Using Blow Torch

Conro reported that Makelin told him he was using a blowtorch during the morning to thaw water pipes which had frozen when the oil supply became exhausted. Makelin and other members of the family left their work to have lunch at the nearby Mirror Lake Lodge, and discovered the fire

Dewey Administration Is To Rely on Fat Economy

Albany, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Dewey administration will rely on the record of a fat post-war economy in a campaign to counter Democratic cries of 'unemployment" in an election year.

The basic themes of a vital political dispute over the pulse-rate of the state's business were sounded yesterday when the debate over reports of mounting layoffs reached the Legislature.

Democratic leaders pointed last night to what they called "economic storm signals," and demanded a broad expansion of the unemployment insurance system "to meet the economic challenge of our times."

They said the state now had half a million people out of work.

But before they spoke the governor had seized the spicy issue with a declaration that, "despite the efforts by some to make it appear that we are in a depresion," employment in the state was higher last month than in any December since World War 2, except for 1952.

Declaring there had been "great advances in employment and earnings," the governor called for increases totaling more than 20 milion dollars a year in benefits under the workmen's compensation law.

In the shadow of the statewide election coming next fall, both sides appeared to be lining up for a bitter campaign debate over prosperity—or the lack of it. The issue, close to the voters' purse, could be a decisive one.

Other developments in the Legislature saw:

1. Both Houses, pass, in straight party votes, a "deficiency appropriation" that calls for spending $10,122,000 in the current fiscal year, mostly for highways.

2. More moves by New York

Laboratory Asks Blood Bank Replacements

Those who owe blood to the local blood bank were urged today by the City of Kingston Laboratory to make replacements as soon as possible.

Dr. Herbert Derman, director of the Lab, made clear that his statement was not to be construed as an emergency appeal for blood. He pointed out that "No one is bleeding to death. Due to the holiday season people have fallen behind in making replacements for blood they have used. At the same time hospital patients have continued to draw on blood bank stock. We are calling this to the attention of the public in order that an emergency shortage will not occur. . . . We need it now."

Dr. Derman said appointments could be made by calling Kingston 6400.

President Says Atomic Talks 'Encouraging'

Eisenhower Adds Time Is Too Soon to Say Whether Soviets Are Acting in Good Faith

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today this country's preliminary atomic talks with Russia are encouraging, but it is too soon to tell whether the Soviets are acting in good faith.

Allies, Red Officers to Hold Parley

Will Be First Action Toward Resumption of Talks to Set Up Peace Conference

Panmunjom, Jan. 13 (AP)—U. S. Envoy Kenneth Young said today allied and Red liaison officers will meet tomorrow in the first step toward resuming talks to set up a Korean peace conference—apparently on Red terms.

The Communists asked Monday for the low-level meeting — but only to discuss a date for reopening preliminary talks broken off Dec. 12 by the United States.

The allies replied Tuesday with a note asking that the staff officers discuss both date and conditions for resuming the conference. The Reds answered with a new note Wednesday.

When he first announced that the officers would meet Young said they would discuss the conditions.

Text Not Released

He did not release the text of the Red note, but paraphrased it this way: "(The Reds) agree to a meeting . . . to agree on the date for political discussions regarding a political (peace) conference."

When asked later about the absence of the word "conditions" in the paraphrase, Young said the latest Red note did not mention "conditions," but only the time of the meeting.

Peiping radio said earlier the Communist liaison officers were prepared to discuss only the date and not conditions for resuming the preliminary talks. Peiping said:

"The only condition required to reopen the discussion is that the Americans come back to the conference table. There can be no other condition . . ."

When U. S. Ambassador Arthur Dean broke off the preliminary talks in December after six weeks of haggling, he said he would not meet with the Reds again unless they retracted a charge of American "perfidy (treachery)."

No Apology Indicated

The Reds have given no indication they will apologize but sources here have indicated the United States might accept something less than a full retraction in order to get the talks started again.

Young said Tuesday this is one of the things the liaison officers would have to "work out."

Meanwhile, the Korean Repatriation Commission prepared to meet Thursday on a secret Indian proposal reportedly designed to solve the touchy issue of releasing war prisoners by turning them back to the commands that formerly held them.

A high source at Panmunjom said the Indian plan would declare the commission has failed through no fault of its own, would give the 22,500 POWs back to the side that held them and would stipulate that if either side releases them the commission is not responsible.

The allies demand that all prisoners be released after midnight of Jan. 22 under the armistice terms. The Reds insist they be held until a peace conference can discuss their fate.

A report that Electrol Incorporated, 85 Grand street, this city, had been incorporated into Republic Aviation Corporation, was flatly denied Tuesday afternoon by Victor E. Fletcher, vice president of the corporation.

The report was "unfounded" Fletcher said and added that it apparently was one of several rumors in circulation. He said Electrol Incorporated was an independent corporation with no connection with any other company and its only connection with Republic was as a customer of Electrol products.

Fletcher reported that the number of persons employed at the plant had been reduced since the close of the Korean war when upwards of 850 had been employed. The reduction in employment he said was "normal" with the peak war work over and the resumption of peacetime activities.

More Than 12,000 Men Toil At New York's Slush, Snow

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—More than 12,000 men, working in bitter cold, continued to hack away today at the frozen snow and slush which has made driving in many of the city's streets hazardous.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 14 degrees. It had risen three degrees from the seasonal low of 11, recorded at 4:35 a. m. today.

The previous low of the winter, 12.8 degrees, was recorded early Monday morning, in the midst of the 10-inch snowstorm, the worst here in five years.

Forecasters at the U. S. Weather Bureau predicted continued cold today, with a high near 25. The low tonight again was expected to be between 10 and 15.

The forecasters said it would not be quite so cold tomorrow, predicting a high temperature near 30. The slight temperature rise would result from southerly winds, the bureau said.

With most of the city's side streets still covered by snow and ice, Sanitation Commissioner Andrew W. Mulrain ordered 12,300 men to resume their snow removal chores.

Approximately 2,500 of the department's 8,000 employes were instructed to make garbage collections today. Emergency workers were hired to take their places in clearing the snow.

The Automobile Club of New York reported the city's major arteries had been cleared, but there were some ice-covered patches.

Suburban highways also were clear, the club said, with the same reservations as to icy spots. Normal speeds on most of the highways leading to the city were resumed.

Route 9W, running north through New Jersey and New York state from the George Washington Bridge, was reported hazardous, with many spots covered by ice.

The Transit Authority said subways and elevated trains were running on time.

Idlewild and LaGuardia Airports were operating normally.

Dulles Will Meet Soviets in Berlin

Secretary of State Pledged Against Deal to Split World With Reds

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles will meet the Russians in Berlin soon firmly pledged against any deal to divide the world between the rule of of Moscow and that of the western powers.

There is no plan for a "partnership division of world power with those who suppress freedom," the secretary said last night in an address to the Council of Foreign Relations here.

Reviewing Eisenhower administration work in foreign and security affairs during its first year and taking a quick look at the future, Dulles made these basic points:

Future Diplomacy

Future diplomacy—The United States, Britain and France will negotiate at Berlin for the unification of Germany and the liberation of Austria. The aim is to "advance the cause of human welfare."

The way to a cold war victory—If the free nations devote themselves to promoting freedom, they will effectively demonstrate its advantages to people behind the Iron Curtain, thus offering "our greatest hope" for solution of the Soviet problem. Dulles said there is now even within Russia, a test

Attorney Succeeds Kaplan; Others Are Named by Chamber

Attorney N. Jansen Fowler was elected president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce last night at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

He succeeds Adrian Kaplan, who will continued to serve as vice-president on the executive committee.

Clarence H. Buddenhagen and J. Ellis Briggs were also elected vice-presidents and DeWeese W. DeWitt treasurer.

Officers were elected unanimously when the slate was presented by Lawrence A. Quilty as chairman of the nominating committee.

Mayor Frederick H. Stang attended his first board meeting as an ex-officio member and took an active part in the discussions. Robert MacKinnon, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, was also present as an ex-officio member.

New Directors Attend

This organization meeting was the first to be attended by the recently elected directors. Those present included Harold H. Baltz, Floyd W. Flint, John H. Haulenbeek, K. Edward Lefren and Harry Rigby, Jr. Two new directors, George L. Chilson and Ber-

Ordinances Drawn To Protect Young

Council Moves to Protect Children From Boxes, Excavations

The Common Council last night acted to protect the city's children from the dangers of abandoned or unprotected refrigerators, wells and cisterns along with other excavations and openings.

Separate ordinances were drafted for the refrigerator and cistern proposals and were supported unanimously in the voting but some of the Democrats said they were in favor of including dangerous and abandoned buildings. This, it was decided, could be done later.

It was a night of new ideas in the council in the midst of action on the budget and other proposals which normally come up this early in the year.

Alderman Charles Cole 13th ward, proposed the raising of additional funds through a levy on building permits, Alderman Ryan offered a resolution proposing the opening of each council meeting with a prayer by a member of the city's clergy.

IBM Is Welcomed

A resolution by Ryan and Relyea, said in effect, that since IBM is definitely coming to the Kingston area, and since 1954 marks the 40th anniversary of Thomas J. Watson, Sr., as "the leader of this company," it is "fitting for the City of Kingston, at this time to sincerely welcome the IBM, and to congratulate Mr. Watson on 40 years of extremely able direction of the affairs of that organi-

Dewey Administration Is To Rely on Fat Economy

Albany, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Dewey administration will rely on the record of a fat post-war economy in a campaign to counter Democratic cries of 'unemployment" in an election year.

The basic themes of a vital political dispute over the pulse-rate of the state's business were sounded yesterday when the debate over reports of mounting layoffs reached the Legislature.

Democratic leaders pointed last night to what they called "economic storm signals," and demanded a broad expansion of the unemployment insurance system "to meet the economic challenge of our times."

They said the state now had half a million people out of work.

But before they spoke the governor had seized the spicy issue with a declaration that, "despite the efforts by some to make it appear that we are in a depresion," employment in the state was higher last month than in any December since World War 2, except for 1952.

Declaring there had been "great advances in employment and earnings," the governor called for increases totaling more than 20 milion dollars a year in benefits under the workmen's compensation law.

In the shadow of the statewide election coming next fall, both sides appeared to be lining up for a bitter campaign debate over prosperity—or the lack of it. The issue, close to the voters' purse, could be a decisive one.

Other developments in the Legislature saw:

1. Both Houses, pass, in straight party votes, a "deficiency appropriation" that calls for spending $10,122,000 in the current fiscal year, mostly for highways.

2. More moves by New York

Laboratory Asks Blood Bank Replacements

Those who owe blood to the local blood bank were urged today by the City of Kingston Laboratory to make replacements as soon as possible.

Dr. Herbert Derman, director of the Lab, made clear that his statement was not to be construed as an emergency appeal for blood. He pointed out that "No one is bleeding to death. Due to the holiday season people have fallen behind in making replacements for blood they have used. At the same time hospital patients have continued to draw on blood bank stock. We are calling this to the attention of the public in order that an emergency shortage will not occur. . . . We need it now."

Dr. Derman said appointments could be made by calling Kingston 6400.

Marbletown Central School News Briefs

Boys and girls of the kindergarten returned to school after the Christmas holidays to find their room newly painted in light green. Snowmen and winter scenes, made by the kindergarten children, decorate their windows and make it a pleasant room.

The third grade room also was painted a light blue. Both rooms are in harmony with the colors of the first and second grade rooms.

The school banking program was resumed Jan. 8, and will continue to be held at the usual time every Friday morning at the opening of school.

The new pencil vending machine arrived and is proving to be popular with the students. The pencil machine, sponsored by the PTF Club, is located in the main office. An attractive green pencil printed with the name Marbletown Central School is released from the machine every time a nickle is deposited.

Attendance for the first fifteen weeks of school has been good with an average of 91 per cent.

The Emcee, the school newspaper, edited and produced by the Newspaper Club in December under the direction of Mrs. Bernice Jansen, sold well. The club is planning to publish the next issue in February. Meanwhile, the club is taking up the study of the Spanish language. The club is ably assisted by Sonia Carley, an eighth grade student who speaks Spanish fluently.

School was closed Jan. 11 due to bad weather conditions.

Dewey Administration . . .

city Democrats to carry out the program of Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr. for state aid to the metropolis. The bulk of Wegner's plan has been rejected by the administration and its legislative spokesman.

Dewey looked at the economic record and said, in a special message to the Legislature, that "average weekly earnings of production workers in factories rose from $49.40 in 1946 to $71.06 during the first eleven months of 1953."

"Our state has continued to grow and prosper," he declared, "in spite of competition from newer industrial areas."

In a joint statement, Sen. Francis J. Mahoney and Assemblyman Eugene F. Brannigan, the Democratic minority leaders, declared that "the total unemployment in New York state is now almost half a million."

They maintained no one should try to "magnify the situation to depression proportions." But they said they were "asking decisive action now while the situation is still in the incipient stage and well before it becomes acute."

The two Democrats said their party would introduce bills to:

Extend the unemployment insurance system to employers of four or fewer persons, who are exempt from the present law; increase maximum unemployment benefits from $30 to $36 a week; grant $4 a week to wives and children—up to a maximum of three dependents—of unemployed persons, and repeal merit-rating formulas in the unemployment insurance fund.

Dewey proposed that maximum weekly benefits for workmen's compensation be raised from $32 to $36 in disability cases, from $35 to $40 in death cases, and from $30 to $33 in sickness cases.

Employes pay ½ of 1 per cent of their wages, up to a maximum of 30 cents a week, for workmen's compensation. The employer pays the balance.

The appropriation measure earmarks $7,450,000 for highway construction and maintenance and $2,227,750 for purchase of materials for highway upkeep. An advance of $200,000 for the Waterfront Commission is authorized.

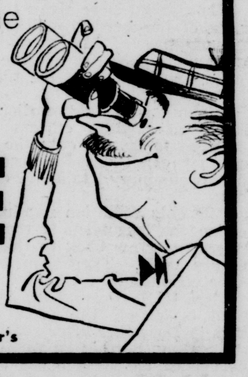

Seven bills to carry out portions of Wagner's financial program were slated for introduction in the Legislature today. They propose:

Increasing the citys' share of state aid to education by 40 million dollars a year, transferring the city's four free colleges to the state, at a cost of 15 millions a year to the state, and replacing the city's auto use tax revenues with a share of the state levy on gasoline and its automobile license fees.

Other measures call for turning the state's stock transfer tax over to the city, giving the city the state income tax revenue from out-of-state commuters working in the metropolis, authorizing the city to tax admissions to race-track clubhouses and restoring to the city a full 5 per cent of the tax on parimutuel betting.

Court of Appeals Stays Executions Of 3 Condemned

Albany, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Court of Appeals has stayed the executions of three men condemned to die in the electric chair for the holdup murder of a Readers' Digest magazine messenger.

The high court granted a motion yesterday for reargument of an appeal by Nathan Wissner, 42, of Brooklyn, and Harry A. Stein, 55, and Calman Cooper, 46, both of Manhattan.

The three had been scheduled to die next week in Sing Sing prison. The stay marked the second time their executions had been postponed.

The three were convicted Dec. 21, 1950, of the murder of Andrew Petrini, 35, Mount Kisco, during a truck robbery on grounds of the Reader's Digest plant at Chappaqua, Westchester county, April 3, 1950.

Can Enter Appeal

The high court yesterday permitted Wissner, Stein and Cooper to enter a new appeal on the ground their constitutional rights had been prejudiced during their trial.

The condemned men claim that police sat so close to them during the trial they were forced to converse in Yiddish while discussing details of their defense. Later, they contend, a policeman who understood Yiddish was moved near their defense table.

Last Dec. 3 the Court of Appeals turned down a previous motion for argument of the case and set the date for execution.

'Without Prejudice'

However, the high court acted "without prejudice" — meaning that it could consider a similar motion later if the facts warranted.

On Dec. 31, the Westchester County Court turned down an application by the three for a writ of coram nobis, seeking to correct an error allegedly made by the court.

Wissner, Stein and Cooper, contending that the lower court errored by seating them where they could be overheard, appealed that decision to the high court.

The state's highest tribunal originally upheld the convictions of the three men on March 6, 1952, and set a date for the executions. But the sentences were stayed pending unsuccessful appeals to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Was Carrying $4,000

Petrini, the Salin messenger, was carrying $4,000 in cash and $35,000 in non-negotiable checks to a bank at Pleasantville when he was shot to death. Later the checks were found abandoned.

Wissner, Stein and Cooper are in the death house at Sing Sing. This week Gov. Dewey postponed a clemency hearing scheduled for the trio when they had filed a motion for reargument with the Court of Appeals.

After trial in Westchester county, the three were convicted of first-degre murder. A fourth man involved in the holdup, Benny Dorfman, 34, of New York city, also was accused of first-degree murder.

Dorfman testified against the other three. He later pleaded guilty to a charge of first-degree manslaughter and is serving 10 to 20 years in Greenhaven State Prison.

Wine more than 2,100 years old was taken from an ancient wreck in the Mediterranean sea by a 1953 archaeological expedition.

WHY THEY SAY:
"We'd Never be Without Father John's Medicine"

In many homes Father John's Medicine is always on hand — because its use has become a habit from one generation to another. Today mothers are giving it to their children because their mothers gave it to them when they were young.

This unusual family confidence is the result of proven merit. Try it for yourself. It has been used by millions for over 95 years.

Wagner Selects 3-Man Committee To Aid Mediation

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr. announced yesterday the appointment of a three-man citizens committee to assist in mediating the contract dispute between Local 553, Coal and Fuel Oil Drivers, AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and the employers.

The members of the committee are Hugh E. Sheridan, impartial chairman of the New York City Trucking Authority; Andrew J. Kennedy, former president of the real estate board of the Bronx, and Louis Lufrano, member of the executive committee of the Central Trades and Labor Council and secretary of the Teamsters Joint Council 16.

In a telegram to the committee and the disputing parties, the mayor asked them to meet with him in City Hall today.

The contract covering 3,000 drivers in the city and Long Island expired Dec. 31, but both parties agreed to continue negotiations through next Friday.

The drivers have asked for an increase of $2.85 daily plus improved welfare and pension benefits. The employers have offered an increase of 5 cents an hour or 40 cents a day.

Current pay is $17.15 a day.

Court of Appeals Stays Executions Of 3 Condemned

Albany, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Court of Appeals has stayed the executions of three men condemned to die in the electric chair for the holdup murder of a Readers' Digest magazine messenger.

The high court granted a motion yesterday for reargument of an appeal by Nathan Wissner, 42, of Brooklyn, and Harry A. Stein, 55, and Calman Cooper, 46, both of Manhattan.

The three had been scheduled to die next week in Sing Sing prison. The stay marked the second time their executions had been postponed.

The three were convicted Dec. 21, 1950, of the murder of Andrew Petrini, 35, Mount Kisco, during a truck robbery on grounds of the Reader's Digest plant at Chappaqua, Westchester county, April 3, 1950.

Can Enter Appeal

The high court yesterday permitted Wissner, Stein and Cooper to enter a new appeal on the ground their constitutional rights had been prejudiced during their trial.

The condemned men claim that police sat so close to them during the trial they were forced to converse in Yiddish while discussing details of their defense. Later, they contend, a policeman who understood Yiddish was moved near their defense table.

Last Dec. 3 the Court of Appeals turned down a previous motion for argument of the case and set the date for execution.

'Without Prejudice'

However, the high court acted "without prejudice" — meaning that it could consider a similar motion later if the facts warranted.

On Dec. 31, the Westchester County Court turned down an application by the three for a writ of coram nobis, seeking to correct an error allegedly made by the court.

Wissner, Stein and Cooper, contending that the lower court errored by seating them where they could be overheard, appealed that decision to the high court.

The state's highest tribunal originally upheld the convictions of the three men on March 6, 1952, and set a date for the executions. But the sentences were stayed pending unsuccessful appeals to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Was Carrying $4,000

Petrini, the Salin messenger, was carrying $4,000 in cash and $35,000 in non-negotiable checks to a bank at Pleasantville when he was shot to death. Later the checks were found abandoned.

Wissner, Stein and Cooper are in the death house at Sing Sing. This week Gov. Dewey postponed a clemency hearing scheduled for the trio when they had filed a motion for reargument with the Court of Appeals.

After trial in Westchester county, the three were convicted of first-degre murder. A fourth man involved in the holdup, Benny Dorfman, 34, of New York city, also was accused of first-degree murder.

Dorfman testified against the other three. He later pleaded guilty to a charge of first-degree manslaughter and is serving 10 to 20 years in Greenhaven State Prison.

Wine more than 2,100 years old was taken from an ancient wreck in the Mediterranean sea by a 1953 archaeological expedition.

WHY THEY SAY:
"We'd Never be Without Father John's Medicine"

In many homes Father John's Medicine is always on hand — because its use has become a habit from one generation to another. Today mothers are giving it to their children because their mothers gave it to them when they were young.

This unusual family confidence is the result of proven merit. Try it for yourself. It has been used by millions for over 95 years.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 13, 1954

NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK

National Thrift Week will be observed January 17 through the 23 and the financial institutions of the city are calling attention to the need for thrift at home, in the community and in the nation.

"Save 10 per cent or more in 1954" is the goal advocated for both family and government budgets during the coming year.

The National Thrift Committee, sponsored by more than 500 different financial institutions in the country, wages a continuous campaign to make people aware of the importance of their savings in keeping America strong and prosperous. The committee encourages the practice of thrift through the development of individual self-reliance through savings and a balanced economy at government and personal levels. The members stress that the knowledge of thrift in a free economy is basic in the future power and growth of this country and they emphasize a program that will champion success in business, contentment in the home and a healthy civic interest through a well planned program of money management.

The American people create prosperity through an unending desire for a better standard of living. It takes money, machines, workers and customers welded together in the American free enterprise system.

The keystone of the structure is individual savings—not laws or government handouts. The savings of individual Americans provide the money to finance new products, to buy machines to produce them and to create new jobs.

You can't legislate prosperity. You can save it by saving.

If you want to see the American economy grow and produce more things for your comfort and convenience, you can do it yourself. Your savings will do the job. And you will be paid for them, too, in interest on your bank account or savings bonds or by regular dividends from shares in savings and loan associations or business corporations.

The earth may have grown old with its burden of worries and cares, but as January comes it seems at least for the moment to gather new spirit. Let's hope this year it carries forward for many months.

DIMES AND DOLLARS

Every dime and dollar we give to the March of Dimes is a way of extending a helping hand to the victims of polio. It is also a form of insurance that if we or one of our loved ones should need it, there will be a helping hand extended.

Great progress has been made in developing treatment for the victims of this dread disease in recent years. Research has also been done in an effort to find an immunization serum against the ravages of polio. Success along that line seems in sight.

This is no time to relax or to lessen our interest in this worthy cause. The March of Dimes is a thoroughly American thing, a form of people helping people which is in our best traditions of generosity and community responsibility. If we continue to give as generously as our means allows the time may come when the scourge of polio will be beaten. Dimes make dollars and dollars spell victory in this all-important fight.

With the grade-school set back in the classroom after the holiday vacation, harassed parents can rest again—but with more respect for what the teacher tackles each day.

INDIA INTO CHINA?

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India has sometimes seemed to take the Communist menace rather casually. He may be disturbed, however, by the announcement in a Calcutta newspaper of the discovery of secret Chinese maps, showing a large part of Northern India included in China. The Chinese call these maps unauthorized, which they very well may be, but are said not to have withdrawn them from circulation.

Maps could have been printed to provoke India into drastic anti-Red action. Such methods are not unknown in the Orient, or in the West, either. Yet, considering the ever unsatisfied Communist hunger for more dominion, it is not unlikely that they regard India as potential booty.

'These Days'

SOME FUNNY TEACHERS

Some months ago, I wrote of a peculiar questionnaire about the private lives of schoolchildren which a parent had sent to me. Subsequently I received a letter from a Brooklyn schoolteacher who attacked me as "an average parent." Parents have been around a long time, much longer than schoolteachers. Most parents feel that they do the best they can for their children.

This teacher is very class-conscious. He wrote:

"You are a practicing journalist and I am a practicing teacher. You can tell me plenty about your trade; I can tell you something about education. Have you ever visited the school during school week? Have you ever conferred with the teachers of your children or haven't you been sufficiently interested?"

I would not call myself a practicing journalist, the term being foreign to my trade. We do not practice on anybody or anything. We are workers in a trade which requires some little skill and a great deal of patience. Maybe, it takes more skill to be a teacher; I would not know, not having taught school since 33 years ago when I tried my hand at it for a spell.

I presume that each trade regards its own as the most difficult, as when physicians look down their noses at dentists, or when musicians always say that everybody else is no good. In our business, it is difficult to go in much for self-praise as no cover-up for laziness and ignorance is available, as editors, usually tough creatures, will tear your eyes out on the least provocation. Also, the public can be ungenerous to a writer whose work stands nude and cold to be read or rejected, to be praised or cursed. Teachers have it much easier, I should imagine, because they can always blame "the system."

This schoolteacher goes further:

"'They (he quotes me) want to know whether the family owns a radio or television.' You bet. That shows how progressive the schools are. We can slant our lessons by correlating what the child hears on radio or sees on television."

I thought that we sent our children to school to learn how to read and write, how to do arithmetic, algebra, trigonometry, Latin, French, history and similar subjects. Surely I do not send them to school to gain knowledge from the "Cisco Kid," or "Martin Kane, Private Eye," or "Crime Busters" or from those sexy dames, who if they have no abnormal bosoms, buy them for exhibition purposes. Imagine slanting lessons to the tune of Milton Berle and Sid Caesar!

This teacher says:

". . . Radio and television determine our assignments for homework, both as to time and content. The assignment is richer and fuller when it is related to radio and television. . . ."

I hope no teachers who are to inspire my children slant the lessons and determine "our assignments for homework," to the tune of a bebop orchestra. I do not deny that good programs do appear, but precisely what do they have to do with school homework? What, for instance, appears on radio or television that will help a child pass the College Entrance Examinations?

Obviously something is wrong with the educational process when one encounters teen-agers, in high school, who know nothing about their own country and its government. Something is wrong when so many of our troops in the recent wars did so badly in their literacy and intelligence tests. Perhaps we should give examinations in the doings of "Wild Bill Hickok" and "Hopalong Cassidy" to discover an aptitude for engineering.

Perhaps a parent might ask the high school boy a few questions in American history or in civics. Ask him how a President is elected and how the Constitution is amended. I recently heard a story about a well-known figure who told a Hawaiian that the best way for Hawaii to get statehood is to elect two Republican Senators and then they could get statehood. Imagine that!

Maybe the radio and television programs were not adequately slanted for this man when he was younger. Perhaps Bobe Hope—I am sure of it—could have educated him that Hawaii could not elect Senators before it was admitted to statehood.

It would seem to me that the time is coming for the parents to free the school from "practicing teachers."

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

FOOD IN PREVENTIVE MEDICINE

Some years ago I was invited by a friend to attend a lecture given by what he called a "noted food specialist." The lecturer was an interesting speaker but I felt that he was really talking to those who were overweight instead of those of normal weight. Finally, at the end of the lecture, there was a display of foods which could be bought at a "reasonable" price. Until recently, the number of these "scientific food specialists" was numerous but food is so important that many laymen now study food and food values including vitamins and minerals.

In the American Journal of Public Health, Dr. C. A. Elvehjim states: "Even though deficiency diseases are mentioned in medical journals as often as formerly and their effect not spectacular, nutrition remains as the most important environmental factor affecting our health. Improper dietary habits are increasing and they are aided and abetted by so-called food specialists, some of whom succeed in attaching an M.D. to their names."

However, due to research conducted by well-established authorities, the field of nutrition is expanding rapidly, so rapidly in fact that the practitioner must constantly review and reassess his knowledge. So many and varied are the changes in the knowledge of nutrition, that we have all seen the pendulum swinging from a low protein (meat, eggs, fish) to a high one."

Despite all the valuable information on nutrition, Dr. Evelhjim states that physicians as a whole are not absorbing or using this information from high sources, that is, from recognized specialists, the nutritionist and the dietitian. He points at the special need for investigation of children's diets although he admits that more research work has been done on children's diets than on adults but even slight changes or deficiencies in children's diets can affect them when they become adults.

"Since fadism in food diets thrives on half-truths and speculation regarding nutritional questions which have not been adequately studied in schools, medical schools should give more serious thought to an adequate basic presentation of this important field to their students."

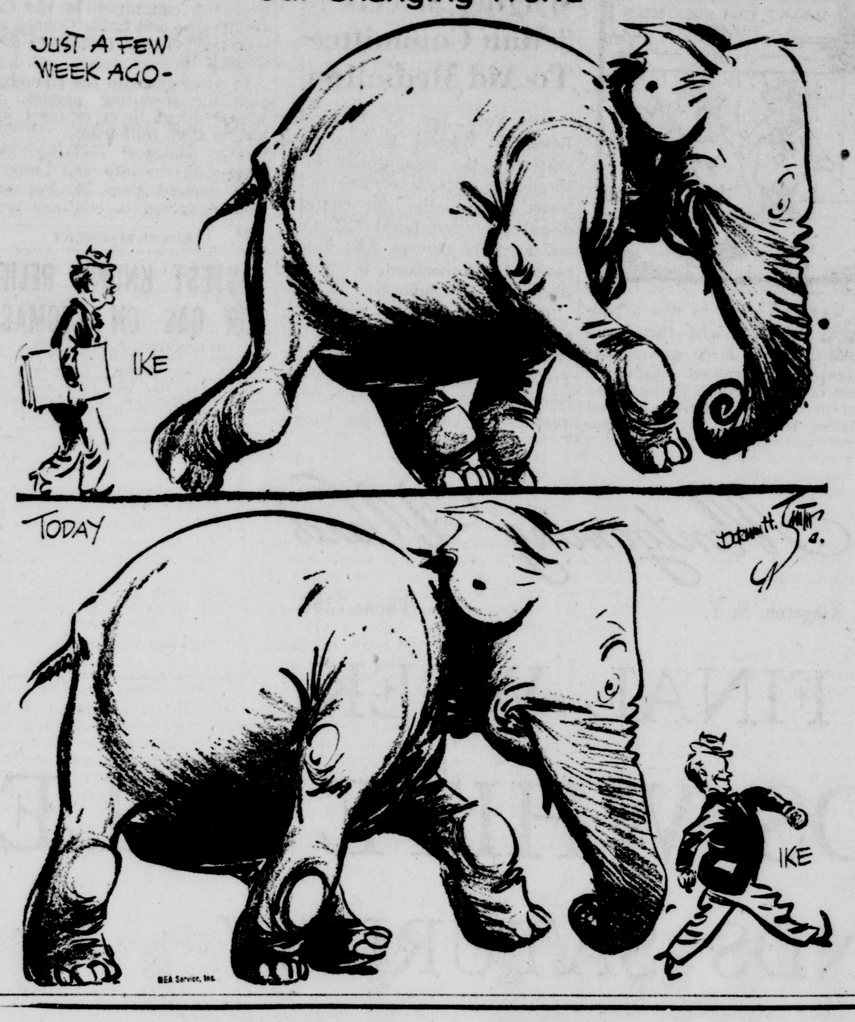

There is no question about the honesty of most of these fadists who believe that anything that has helped them should help everybody but, unfortunately, this is not true and scientific research medical men should give more attention to this important matter of nutrition.

Eating Your Way to Health

Be sure you are getting sufficient of the various types of foodstuffs for your particular build, type of occupation and age. Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA)—Red Chinese and North Korean Communist peace negotiators have let it be known that they will withdraw their charges of "perfidy" against the United States. They have further declared their willingness to expunge the record of this remark.

The Communists are most eager to resume the peace negotiations at Panmunjom. Any decision to have U. S. Special Ambassador Arthur H. Dean return to Korea to resume the negotiations is being delayed, however, pending a complete review of the situation in Washington.

The inside story of why Ambassador Dean broke off the negotiations on Dec. 12 reveals what the United States are up against in trying to make peace with the Communists in Korea. The Communists have been using these negotiations for propaganda broadcasts via the Peiping radio and other media, all over Asia. It became necessary for Ambassador Dean to break up this racket. He did so decisively and effectively.

The situation arose out of a conference rule first established when the military leaders were arranging the cease-fire agreement. This rule was that when one side did not wish to reply immediately to a statement by the other side, it could say in effect, "Your statement is noted." The session could then be recessed while the answering side thought up appropriate remarks or a counterproposal.

Blind for Propaganda

When the negotiations over time, place and composition of the peace conference began in October, the Communists began to use this procedure to make propaganda. At the start of nearly every meeting, the Communist spokesman would read a prepared statement. Usually this statement would contain a denunciation of the U. S., the UN or South Korea. These statements became increasingly abusive.

Ambassador Dean at first let these insults roll off his tough lawyer's hide without comment. His desire was to get on with arranging a peace conference. He made a perfect negotiator, from the United Nations point of view, because he did not get angry and did not blow his top under Communist goading. But then he became aware of what was happening and he saw that he must change his tactics.

It was noted that every meeting day, the Peiping radio was broadcasting the text of the Communists' prepared statements. Often these statements were broadcast 24 hours before the Communist delegates were to make them. And the broadcasters would then report that the United Nations' side had not denied the charges nor replied to them. The effect was to create the impression that Ambassador Dean was admitting the charges.

The showdown came on Dec. 12 when Wang Huang-hua, the principal Chinese delegate, made a statement through the North Korean delegate, Ki Sok Bok. It was the old charge that the U. S. had connived with South Korea in releasing 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean prisoners of war last June. Wang accused the U. S. of "perfidy" in this act.

Dean Denounced Charges

Ambassador Dean saw that he could not let that one pass. Immediately he denounced the charge as untrue . . . nonsense . . . bunk . . . garbage. He said unless the charge was withdrawn he would treat it as notice that the Communists wished to recess the talks indefinitely. Then he walked out.

This maneuver obviously caught Wang by surprise. It came on a Saturday. At 4:40 a. m. Monday the Communists sent word to the United Nations' negotiators that they wanted to resume the negotiations next day.

There was an offer then to withdraw the charge and expunge the record, as Ambassador Dean had demanded. But by that time Ambassador Dean had decided to come home for the Christmas holidays, to attend his son's wedding and to consult with the State Department. It would give the Communists a chance to cool off and it would allow the UN to offset the Communist propaganda.

Though it has not been reported, Ambassador Dean has given, as well as taken, in the exchanges with the Communist negotiators. A typical incident occurred during one of the many debates over admission of Soviet Russia to the peace talks as a belligerent—not as a neutral.

Ambassador Dean stated bluntly that he wanted Russia there to make her vote a matter of record and to make sure that the Kremlin would agree to live up to the peace terms. He said Communist China and North Korea were mere stooges of Russia, anyway.

Wang Huang-hua objected and asked that the remark be withdrawn. "The point that the Chinese delegate does not wish to be known as a stooge of Russia is noted," replied Dean in effect, and let it pass.

Dulles' Statements in New York Considered Revealing as Regards Foreign Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 13—What John Foster Dulles, secretary of state, told the Council on Foreign Relations in New York, and simultaneously the nation by radio and television network, is more revealing as a statement of American foreign policy than anything said since the Eisenhower administration began.

Firt it tells why the military budget is being cut and how the United States is embarking on a long-range program in the world that is not geared merely to emergencies but to a definite plan of defense for all purposes.

Many people must have wondered how troops could be withdrawn from Korea now, why plans were being made for less American manpower in Europe and for substantial cuts in conventional military services. The answer is given by Mr. Dulles, and it is to be found in this paragraph of his address:

"Before military planning could be changed, the President and his advisers, as represented by the National Security Council, had to take some basic policy decisions. This has been done. The basic decision was to depend primarily upon a great capacity to retaliate, instantly, by means and at places of our choosing. Now the Department of Defense and the joint chiefs of staff can shape our military establishment to fit what is our policy, instead of having to try to be ready to meet the enemy's many choices. That permits of a selection of military means instead of a multiplication of means. As a result, it is now possible to get, and share, more basic security at less cost."

The secretary of state isn't to be expected to disclose military measures, but the plain meaning of his remarks is that the United States is relying on the atom bomb and the hydrogen bomb and every atom weapon in its arsenal to repel any military aggression that might come from the Communists in the future.

It must necessary mean that all plans to outlaw atomic weapons such as Soviet Russia has been proposing have been abandoned and such a ban will never be accepted unless there are such foolproof safeguards as to insure no possibility of an aggression anyhow. This means a system of inspection and an assured method of preventing aggression—which, of course, the present rulers in Moscow are not likely to approve.

So, for all practical purposes, the United States has decided on a retaliatory defense — a defense that doesn't require massive land armies to win an objective but enough striking power from the overseas bases by our air force as well as from aircraft carriers of the navy to make sure that the enemy will not launch an attack in the first place.

Mr. Dulles points out that the policies adopted by the Truman-Acheson administration in Turkey and Greece and through the European recovery plan were good but that America was obliged to fight an "emergency action," when it is of the utmost importance to develop a program for the long range. He declares that the "long-time" factor is of critical importance and he hints that the strategy must be adopted by America which can be judged adequate not merely because it wards off "immediate danger" but because of what it accomplishes over what the Soviets call "an entire historical era."

The secretary says it wasn't "sound military strategy to commit our army to fight land battles in Asia," and that this was our decision prior to 1950. Incidentally, General Eisenhower participated in that decision when he was chief of staff of the army. Mr. Dulles says "it was Soviet inspired action that pulled us back" into Korea. Mr. Dulles might have added that, while the decision to interview and to repel aggression in Korea was correct, the failure of the previous administration to provide in advance the military sinews for such a campaign in Korea and later its refusal to use maximum power—which apparently now is being sanctioned—was responsible for lack of military victory and for what is known as "the Korean mess."

Reliance is placed by Mr. Dulles on the "strategic reserve" idea, which means a mobile force. He says it was never "sound military strategy permanently to commit U. S. land forces to Asia to a degree that leaves us no strategic reserves." He says, too, it was "not sound economics, or good foreign policy, to support permanently other countries; for in the long run, that creates as much ill will as good will."

Statements such as these could not possibly be made today by a spokesman for the United States government if it were not for a basic decision to use maximum power—including all atomic weapons—if Soviet Russia starts aggression. That is a fateful warning and one needed to be given.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

Hamlet in the Toy Department

Shortly after Christmas, Actors' Equity announced that more of it members had been employed as Santa Clauses during the holiday season than had worked in the legitimate theatre during the entire year of 1953.

Last week I heard an odd tale which seems to point up the sobering truth of the Equity statistic . . .

Back in the '20's when I first set up shop on Broadway, there was a matinee idol I'm going to call Meredith Scott who affected the ladies, God bless 'em, the way catnip affects a pussycat. Good-looking and suave in a Noel Cowardish way, his name on a marquee, even in a bad show, guaranteed it a substantial run.

During the dozen years of his stardom, Meredith's name adorned almost as many wives as it did marquees. He was gentle with these wives—there were five of them—but he had the true mummer's approach to matrimony: in marriage, as in the theatre, an actor needs a new vehicle every couple of years if he's not to go stale.

Flies time, as the saying goes, and by the mid-'30's the Meredith chest had slipped down to his abdomen, and the Barrymorish profile had sprouted an unwanted chin. And, as is usually the case, as Scott's flesh expanded, his pulling powers dwindled.

In recent years, as I get it, the going had been real tough for the aged matinee idol who had saved neither money nor wives.

Throughout 1953, he hadn't been offered so much as a walk-on, and so, when an old friend at the Lamb's Club told him how much the department stores were paying their Santa Clauses, he applied for one of the jobs and got it.

Meredith Scott, as might be expected, was no ordinary Santa. For one thing, instead of wearing the store's stock Santa outfit, he went over to the Brooks Costume Company where Jimmy Stroock, for old-time's sake, fixed him up with the most splendiferous Santa outfit on his racks. For another, before starting work, the thespian spent almost two hours at a dressing table making up. So, when he made his grand entrance on the floor of the toy department, he was Santa down to the last bristle of his magnificent whiskers.

On the third day of his "run," a four-year-old boy, accompanied by his mother, joined the line of kids waiting to whisper their Christmas requests. When Meredith saw the lad's mother, he got a bad case of stage fright. It was his third wife, Estelle—his leading lady in a Sam Shipman comedy who, after their divorce, had married a well-to-do, if unglamorous, railroad executive.

Meredith doubted she would recognize him beneath his heavy make-up, but he watched her closely none the less. Would she—? Good! She didn't. Well, then, by Kris Kringle himself, he'd give her a show!

Unfortunately, however, his performance got off on the wrong foot. For, as his ex-wife's son sidled up to him, the lad's opening line was, "You ain't Santa. You're a big fake."

This was a bit too much for the old performer. Nobody had ever questioned his Cyrano, Hamlet or Marchbanks. How dare a small boy question his Santa?

For the next five minutes, while impatient youngsters waited to be heard, the ex-star turned on every bit of charm and talent he had left. Quietly, confidentially, sincerely, he explained to the lad how he had helpers——fakers, to be sure—who played Santa in less important stores; how other helpers—real ones—were at that very moment busy loading toys into bags at the North Pole, and how, on Christmas Eve, he, the only genuine Santa, would come down the chimney with everything the lad's heart desired.

The old magic was still there.

"Gee," said the boy, "I take it back, Mr. Santa. Could I have a space suit, a rocket ship and a catcher's glove?"

Meredith looked over at his former wife. She nodded okay.

"They'll be under the Christmas tree when you wake up," he said.

"How'll you know where I live?" asked the boy.

"I'll write out our address and give it to Santa," said his mother.

She went to a nearby desk, made out a card, put it in an envelope and handed it to Meredith.

As boy and mother disappeared into the crowd, the old actor grinned a whiskery grin of relief.

He opened the envelope. On the card was written, "A Merry Christmas to the finest actor I ever knew."

Pinned to it was a check for $500.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 13, 1954

NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK

National Thrift Week will be observed January 17 through the 23 and the financial institutions of the city are calling attention to the need for thrift at home, in the community and in the nation.

"Save 10 per cent or more in 1954" is the goal advocated for both family and government budgets during the coming year.

The National Thrift Committee, sponsored by more than 500 different financial institutions in the country, wages a continuous campaign to make people aware of the importance of their savings in keeping America strong and prosperous. The committee encourages the practice of thrift through the development of individual self-reliance through savings and a balanced economy at government and personal levels. The members stress that the knowledge of thrift in a free economy is basic in the future power and growth of this country and they emphasize a program that will champion success in business, contentment in the home and a healthy civic interest through a well planned program of money management.

The American people create prosperity through an unending desire for a better standard of living. It takes money, machines, workers and customers welded together in the American free enterprise system.

The keystone of the structure is individual savings—not laws or government handouts. The savings of individual Americans provide the money to finance new products, to buy machines to produce them and to create new jobs.

You can't legislate prosperity. You can save it by saving.

If you want to see the American economy grow and produce more things for your comfort and convenience, you can do it yourself. Your savings will do the job. And you will be paid for them, too, in interest on your bank account or savings bonds or by regular dividends from shares in savings and loan associations or business corporations.

The earth may have grown old with its burden of worries and cares, but as January comes it seems at least for the moment to gather new spirit. Let's hope this year it carries forward for many months.

DIMES AND DOLLARS

Every dime and dollar we give to the March of Dimes is a way of extending a helping hand to the victims of polio. It is also a form of insurance that if we or one of our loved ones should need it, there will be a helping hand extended.

Great progress has been made in developing treatment for the victims of this dread disease in recent years. Research has also been done in an effort to find an immunization serum against the ravages of polio. Success along that line seems in sight.

This is no time to relax or to lessen our interest in this worthy cause. The March of Dimes is a thoroughly American thing, a form of people helping people which is in our best traditions of generosity and community responsibility. If we continue to give as generously as our means allows the time may come when the scourge of polio will be beaten. Dimes make dollars and dollars spell victory in this all-important fight.

With the grade-school set back in the classroom after the holiday vacation, harassed parents can rest again—but with more respect for what the teacher tackles each day.

INDIA INTO CHINA?

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India has sometimes seemed to take the Communist menace rather casually. He may be disturbed, however, by the announcement in a Calcutta newspaper of the discovery of secret Chinese maps, showing a large part of Northern India included in China. The Chinese call these maps unauthorized, which they very well may be, but are said not to have withdrawn them from circulation.

Maps could have been printed to provoke India into drastic anti-Red action. Such methods are not unknown in the Orient, or in the West, either. Yet, considering the ever unsatisfied Communist hunger for more dominion, it is not unlikely that they regard India as potential booty.

SOME FUNNY TEACHERS

Some months ago, I wrote of a peculiar questionnaire about the private lives of schoolchildren which a parent had sent to me. Subsequently I received a letter from a Brooklyn schoolteacher who attacked me as "an average parent." Parents have been around a long time, much longer than schoolteachers. Most parents feel that they do the best they can for their children.

This teacher is very class-conscious. He wrote: "You are a practicing journalist and I am a practicing teacher. You can tell me plenty about your trade; I can tell you something about education. Have you ever visited the school during school week? Have you ever conferred with the teachers of your children or haven't you been sufficiently interested?"

I would not call myself a practicing journalist, the term being foreign to my trade. We do not practice on anybody or anything. We are workers in a trade which requires some little skill and a great deal of patience. Maybe, it takes more skill to be a teacher; I would not know, not having taught school since 33 years ago when I tried my hand at it for a spell.

I presume that each trade regards its own as the most difficult, as when physicians look down their noses at dentists, or when musicians always say that everybody else is no good. In our business, it is difficult to go in much for self-praise as no cover-up for laziness and ignorance is available, as editors, usually tough creatures, will tear your eyes out on the least provocation. Also, the public can be ungenerous to a writer whose work stands nude and cold to be read or rejected, to be praised or cursed. Teachers have it much easier, I should imagine, because they can always blame "the system."

This schoolteacher goes further:

"They (he quotes me) want to know whether the family owns a radio or television.' You bet. That shows how progressive the schools are. We can slant our lessons by correlating what the child hears on radio or sees on television."

I thought that we sent our children to school to learn how to read and write, how to do arithmetic, algebra, trigonometry, Latin, French, history and similar subjects. Surely I do not send them to school to gain knowledge from the "Cisco Kid," or "Martin Kane, Private Eye," or "Crime Busters" or from those sexy dames, who if they have no abnormal bosoms, buy them for exhibition purposes. Imagine slanting lessons to the tune of Milton Berle and Sid Caesar!

This teacher says:

". . . Radio and television determine our assignments for homework, both as to time and content. The assignment is richer and fuller when it is related to radio and television. . . ."

I hope no teachers who are to inspire my children slant the lessons and determine "our assignments for homework," to the tune of a bebop orchestra. I do not deny that good programs do appear, but precisely what do they have to do with school homework? What, for instance, appears on radio or television that will help a child pass the College Entrance Examinations?

Obviously something is wrong with the educational process when one encounters teen-agers, in high school, who know nothing about their own country and its government. Something is wrong when so many of our troops in the recent wars did so badly in their literacy and intelligence tests. Perhaps we should give examinations in the doings of "Wild Bill Hickok" and "Hopalong Cassidy" to discover an aptitude for engineering.

Perhaps a parent might ask the high school boy a few questions in American history or in civics. Ask him how a President is elected and how the Constitution is amended. I recently heard a story about a well-known figure who told a Hawaiian that the best way for Hawaii to get statehood is to elect two Republican Senators and then they could get statehood. Imagine that!

Maybe the radio and television programs were not adequately slanted for this man when he was younger. Perhaps Bobe Hope—I am sure of it—could have educated him that Hawaii could not elect Senators before it was admitted to statehood.

It would seem to me that the time is coming for the parents to free the school from "practicing teachers."

FOOD IN PREVENTIVE MEDICINE

Some years ago I was invited by a friend to attend a lecture given by what he called a "noted food specialist." The lecturer was an interesting speaker but I felt that he was really talking to those who were overweight instead of those of normal weight. Finally, at the end of the lecture, there was a display of foods which could be bought at a "reasonable" price. Until recently, the number of these "scientific food specialists" was numerous but food is so important that many laymen now study food and food values including vitamins and minerals.

In the American Journal of Public Health, Dr. C. A. Elvehjim states: "Even though deficiency diseases are mentioned in medical journals as often as formerly and their effect not spectacular, nutrition remains as the most important environmental factor affecting our health. Improper dietary habits are increasing and they are aided and abetted by so-called food specialists, some of whom succeed in attaching an M.D. to their names."

However, due to research conducted by well-established authorities, the field of nutrition is expanding rapidly, so rapidly in fact that the practitioner must constantly review and reassess his knowledge. So many and varied are the changes in the knowledge of nutrition, that we have all seen the pendulum swinging from a low protein (meat, eggs, fish) to a high one."

Despite all the valuable information on nutrition, Dr. Evelhjim states that physicians as a whole are not absorbing or using this information from high sources, that is, from recognized specialists, the nutritionist and the dietitian. He points at the special need for investigation of children's diets although he admits that more research work has been done on children's diets than on adults but even slight changes or deficiencies in children's diets can affect them when they become adults.

"Since fadism in food diets thrives on half-truths and speculation regarding nutritional questions which have not been adequately studied in schools, medical schools should give more serious thought to an adequate basic presentation of this important field to their students."

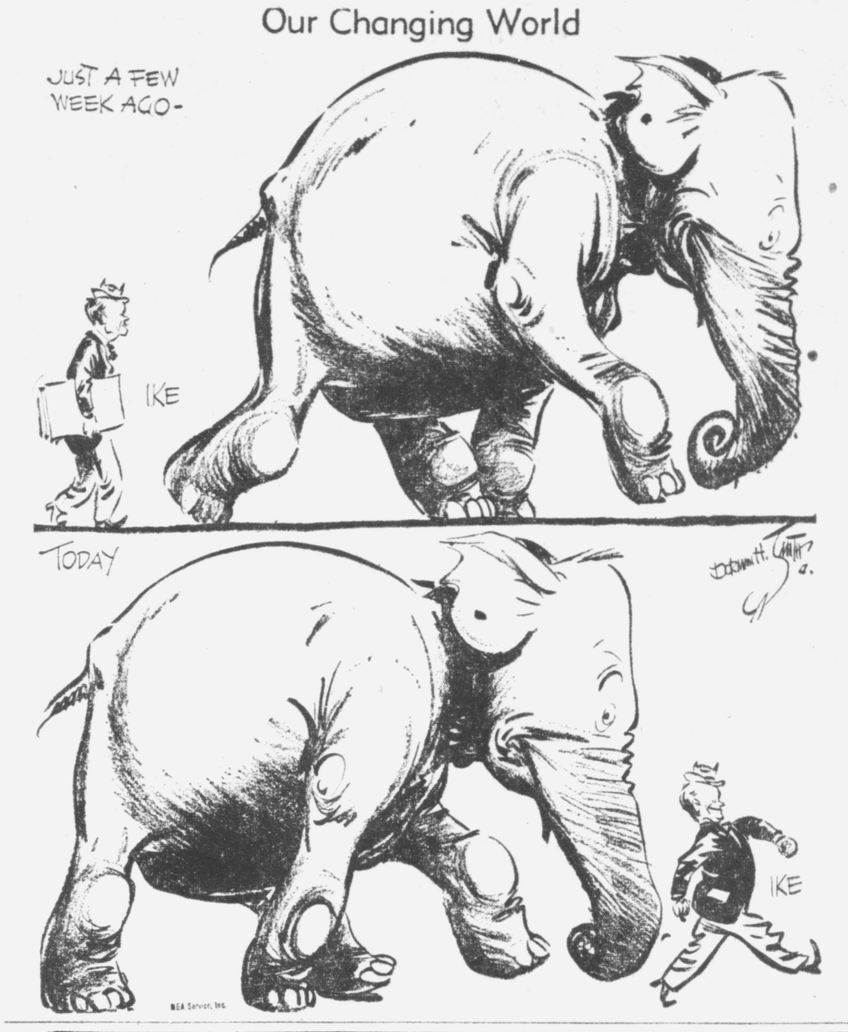

There is no question about the honesty of most of these fadists who believe that anything that has helped them should help everybody but, unfortunately, this is not true and scientific research medical men should give more attention to this important matter of nutrition.

Washington, (NEA)—Red Chinese and North Korean Communist peace negotiators have let it be known that they will withdraw their charges of "perfidy" against the United States. They have further declared their willingness to expunge the record of this remark.

The Communists are most eager to resume the peace negotiations at Panmunjom. Any decision to have U. S. Special Ambassador Arthur H. Dean return to Korea to resume the negotiations is being delayed, however, pending a complete review of the situation in Washington.

The inside story of why Ambassador Dean broke off the negotiations on Dec. 12 reveals what the United States are up against in trying to make peace with the Communists in Korea. The Communists have been using these negotiations for propaganda broadcasts via the Peiping radio and other media, all over Asia. It became necessary for Ambassador Dean to break up this racket. He did so decisively and effectively.

The situation arose out of a conference rule first established when the military leaders were arranging the cease-fire agreement. This rule was that when one side did not wish to reply immediately to a statement by the other side, it could say in effect, "Your statement is noted." The session could then be recessed while the answering side thought up appropriate remarks or a counterproposal.

Blind for Propaganda

When the negotiations over time, place and composition of the peace conference began in October, the Communists began to use this procedure to make propaganda. At the start of nearly every meeting, the Communist spokesman would read a prepared statement. Usually this statement would contain a denunciation of the U. S., the UN or South Korea. But then he became aware of what was happening and he saw that he must change his tactics.

It was noted that every meeting day, the Peiping radio was broadcasting the text of the Communists' prepared statements. Often these statements were broadcast 24 hours before the Communist delegates were to make them. And the broadcasters would then report that the United Nations' side had not denied the charges nor replied to them. The effect was to create the impression that Ambassador Dean was admitting the charges.

The showdown came on Dec. 12 when Wang Huang-hua, the principal Chinese delegate, made a statement through the North Korean delegate, Ki Sok Bok. It was the old charge that the U. S. had connived with South Korea in releasing 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean prisoners of war last June. Wang accused the U. S. of "perfidy" in this act.

Dean Denounced Charges

Ambassador Dean saw that he could not let that one pass. Immediately he denounced the charge as untrue . . . nonsense . . . bunk . . . garbage. He said unless the charge was withdrawn he would treat it as notice that the Communists wished to recess the talks indefinitely. Then he walked out.

This maneuver obviously caught Wang by surprise. It came on a Saturday. At 4:40 a. m. Monday the Communists sent word to the United Nations' negotiators that they wanted to resume the negotiations next day.

There was an offer then to withdraw the charge and expunge the record, as Ambassador Dean had demanded. But by that time Ambassador Dean had decided to come home for the Christmas holidays, to attend his son's wedding and to consult with the State Department. It would give the Communists a chance to cool off and it would allow the UN to offset the Communist propaganda.

Though it has not been reported, Ambassador Dean has given, as well as taken, in the exchanges with the Communist negotiators. A typical incident occurred during one of the many debates over admission of Soviet Russia to the peace talks as a belligerent—not as a neutral.

Ambassador Dean stated bluntly that he wanted Russia there to make her vote a matter of record and to make sure that the Kremlin would agree to live up to the peace terms. He said Communist China and North Korea were mere stooges of Russia, anyway.

Wang Huang-hua objected and asked that the remark be withdrawn. "The point that the Chinese delegate does not wish to be known as a stooge of Russia is noted," replied Dean in effect, and let it pass.

The basic decision was to depend primarily upon a great capacity to retaliate, instantly, by means and at places of our choosing. Now the Department of Defense and the joint chiefs of staff can shape our military establishment to fit what is our policy, instead of having to try to be ready to meet the enemy's many choices. That permits of a selection of military means instead of a multiplication of means. As a result, it is now possible to get, and share, more basic security at less cost."

The secretary of state isn't to be expected to disclose military measures, but the plain meaning of his remarks is that the United States is relying on the atom bomb and the hydrogen bomb and every atom weapon in its arsenal to repel any military aggression that might come from the Communists in the future.

It must necessary mean that all plans to outlaw atomic weapons such as Soviet Russia has been proposing have been abandoned and such a ban will never be accepted unless there are such foolproof safeguards as to insure no possibility of an aggression anyhow. This means a system of inspection and an assured method of preventing aggression—which, of course, the present rulers in Moscow are not likely to approve.

So, for all practical purposes, the United States has decided on a retaliatory defense — a defense that doesn't require massive land armies to win an objective but enough striking power from the overseas bases by our air force as well as from aircraft carriers of the navy to make sure that the enemy will not launch an attack in the first place.

Mr. Dulles points out that the policies adopted by the Truman-Acheson administration in Turkey and Greece and through the European recovery plan were good but that America was obliged to fight an "emergency action," when it is of the utmost importance to develop a program for the long range. He declares that the "long-time" factor is of critical importance and he hints that the strategy must be adopted by America which can be judged adequate not merely because it wards off "immediate danger" but because of what it accomplishes over what the Soviets call "an entire historical era."

The secretary says it wasn't "sound military strategy to commit our army to fight land battles in Asia," and that this was our decision prior to 1950. Incidentally, General Eisenhower participated in that decision when he was chief of staff of the army. Mr. Dulles says "it was Soviet inspired action that pulled us back" into Korea. Mr. Dulles might have added that, while the decision to interview and to repel aggression in Korea was correct, the failure of the previous administration to provide in advance the military sinews for such a campaign in Korea and later its refusal to use maximum power—which apparently now is being sanctioned—was responsible for lack of military victory and for what is known as "the Korean mess."

Reliance is placed by Mr. Dulles on the "strategic reserve" idea, which means a mobile force. He says it was never "sound military strategy permanently to commit U. S. land forces to Asia to a degree that leaves us no strategic reserves." He says, too, it was "not sound economics, or good foreign policy, to support permanently other countries; for in the long run, that creates as much ill will as good will."

Statements such as these could not possibly be made today by a spokesman for the United States government if it were not for a basic decision to use maximum power—including all atomic weapons—if Soviet Russia starts aggression. That is a fateful warning and one needed to be given.

Rare Mineral Scorned

Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—Anybody want to mine some columbium? Arkansas State Geologist Norman Williams says there is an untapped deposit near Magnet Cove, Ark., of the rare metal used in jet engines. The firms he has tried to interest have rejected it. The United States now imports all of its columbium from Africa.

Privacy Is Lost

Williamston, N. C. (AP) — Law enforcement officers paid no heed to signs around a thick wooded area warning: "Private property. Keep off." In the woods was a big gas-fired copper liquor still and 2,800 gallons of mash.

Hamlet in the Toy Department

Shortly after Christmas, Actors' Equity announced that more of it members had been employed as Santa Clauses during the holiday season than had worked in the legitimate theatre during the entire year of 1953.

Last week I heard an odd tale which seems to point up the sobering truth of the Equity statistic . . .

Back in the '20's when I first set up shop on Broadway, there was a matinee idol I'm going to call Meredith Scott who affected the ladies. God bless 'em, the way catnip affects a pussycat. Good-looking and suave in a Noel Cowardish way, his name on a marquee, even in a bad show, guaranteed it a substantial run.

During the dozen years of his stardom, Meredith's name adorned almost as many wives as it did marquees. He was gentle with these wives—there were five of them—but he had the true mummer's approach to matrimony: in marriage, as in the theatre, an actor needs a new vehicle every couple of years if he's not to go stale.

Flies time, as the saying goes, and by the mid-'30's the Meredith chest had slipped down to his abdomen, and the Barrymorish profile had sprouted an unwanted chin. And, as is usually the case, as Scott's flesh expanded, his pulling powers dwindled.

In recent years, as I get it, the going had been real tough for the aged matinee idol who had saved neither money nor wives.

Throughout 1953, he hadn't been offered so much as a walk-on, and so, when an old friend at the Lamb's Club told him how much the department stores were paying their Santa Clauses, he applied for one of the jobs and got it.

Meredith Scott, as might be expected, was no ordinary Santa. For one thing, instead of wearing the store's stock Santa outfit, he went over to the Brooks Costume Company where Jimmy Stroock, for old-time's sake, fixed him up with the most splendiferous Santa outfit on his racks. For another, before starting work, the thespian spent almost two hours at a dressing table making up. So, when he made his grand entrance on the floor of the toy department, he was Santa down to the last bristle of his magnificent whiskers.

On the third day of his "run," a four-year-old boy, accompanied by his mother, joined the line of kids waiting to whisper their Christmas requests. When Meredith saw the lad's mother, he got a bad case of stage fright. It was his third wife, Estelle—his leading lady in a Sam Shipman comedy who, after their divorce, had married a well-to-do, if unglamorous, railroad executive.

Meredith doubted she would recognize him beneath his heavy make-up, but he watched her closely none the less. Would she—? Good! She didn't. Well, then, by Kris Kringle himself, he'd give her a show!

Unfortunately, however, his performance got off on the wrong foot. For, as his ex-wife's son sidled up to him, the lad's opening line was, "You ain't Santa. You're a big fake."

This was a bit too much for the old performer. Nobody had ever questioned his Cyrano, Hamlet or Marchbanks. How dare a small boy question his Santa?

For the next five minutes, while impatient youngsters waited to be heard, the ex-star turned on every bit of charm and talent he had left. Quietly, confidentially, sincerely, he explained to the lad how he had helpers——fakers, to be sure—who played Santa in less important stores; hew other helpers—real ones—were at that very moment busy loading toys into bags at the North Pole, and how, on Christmas Eve, he, the only genuine Santa, would come down the chimney with everything the lad's heart desired.

The old magic was still there.

"Gee," said the boy, "I take it back, Mr. Santa. Could I have a space suit, a rocket ship and a catcher's glove?"

Meredith looked over at his former wife. She nodded okay.

"They'll be under the Christmas tree when you wake up," he said.

"How'll you know where I live?" asked the boy.

"I'll write out our address and give it to Santa," said his mother.

She went to a nearby desk, made out a card, put it in an envelope and handed it to Meredith.

As boy and mother disappeared into the crowd, the old actor grinned a whiskery grin of relief.

He opened the envelope. On the card was written, "A Merry Christmas to the finest actor I ever knew."

Pinned to it was a check for $500.

The official merrymaking is matched by a certain amount of light-hearted bidding and playing during the tournament. In last year's tournament, for example, West managed to find a double of four hearts when Morris Freier, of Minneapolis, reached this normal contract by logical bidding. It may have seemed like a good idea to double as part of a carnival, but it cannot be recommended as a serious bid.

West opened the queen of spades, and Freier won in dummy with the king in order to lead a trump. He finessed the queen and was a bit staggered when West discarded a club.

East's nine. East returned a spade, and South won with the ace.

Declarer now embarked on a campaign of making all five trumps in his own hand, to add to the five top cards in the side suits. He led a dimond to the dummy and ruffed a third round of diamonds with a low trump. He then led out dummy's two top clubs and ruffed dummy's last diamond with his own last small trump.

By this time South was down to a losing spade, a losing club, and the ace-jack of trumps. East had four trumps. South could exist with either a spade or a club, and East was forced to ruff his partner's trick.

East then had to lead a trump, diving declarer another finesse, and allowing him to make his doubled contract.

When the hand had been finished, East went through the motions of looking at his partner's hand, under the table, and under each of the chairs. "What are you looking for?" West finally asked.

"I'm looking for your double," East replied, "but I don't think anybody'll ever find it."

Noise Chases Starlings

State College, Pa., (AP) — The Pennsylvania State University has a starling chaser. It cleared the nearby community of Millheim (pop. 1,000) of 15,000 starlings and certain areas of State College before the birds departed on their annual migration. The birds moved out when treatment was applied in August, and didn't return. The treatment consists of the amplification of a very special noise. "The noise," Dr. Herbert W. Frings explains, "will not arouse the robins, grackles, nor cowbirds, but we feel we can develop a treatment for them also."

"That's right," she replied. They're served only on sundaes."

Thirty-five million American families are about to give a big sigh of relief. The government plans to free them from a nerve-wracking job.

It proposes that they be saved the annual job of making out lengthy income tax returns. Instead, employers will report wages and salaries paid and also taxes withheld. All the Internel Revenue boys will have to do is compute the total tax, refund an over-payment or notify the taxpayer of the additional sum due.

Mr. Hutton

Now, this sounds like a swell idea and it's a wonder the Big Brains in Washington didn't think of something like that years ago.

There's only one hitch. The idea will affect only those who have no income except salary or wages and who take the standard deduction.

For them the blood, sweat and tears of the past will be gone and they can devote the endless time previously lost to more constructive pursuits.

But, the rest—the millions not in this category—will still be left in the bear trap. They still will have to cut a path through an African jungle of jaw-breaking language and confused phrases, trying to avoid the pain and penalty of making a mistake in interpreting the law.

The time spent by these taxpayers in figuring their tax runs into billions of hours and costs them billions of dollars annually. It's an out-go tax on the income tax, which "ain't" fair.

President "Ike" and Congress: give the rest of the sufferers a break, too.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

One of the social events of the Christmas season which was discussed with enthusiasm in Rondout recently was the wedding of Gwynne Angela Hazen to Stanley Zachery Cherry at the Crystal Pavilion of the Sherry Netherland in New York. It was written with a three column spread and a two column width photo of the beautiful bride in The Daily News Christmas Day, Dec. 25, 1953. Nancy Randolph, the well known social editor of The News, described the bride, as the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Hazen of 888 Park avenue. The bride had six attendants who were dressed in dusty pink satin with jackets of American beauty velvet and matching velvet coronets and carrying cascades of pink roses. The maid of honor was Cynthia Jo Hazen the bride's sister. One of the bridesmaids was Joan Benny. One of the neighbors down my way thinks perhaps it was Jack Benny's daughter, as Joseph Hazen is a partner of Hal B. Wallis and famous for years in the production of motion pictures. No doubt other newspapers will carry other details of this beautiful wedding.

The Hazen family is fondly remembered in Rondout especially as Max Hazen for many years had a shoe store in this section. Back in 1916 his shoe store was at 19 Broadway and at the time he was proprietor of the famous Mansion House building. I see Mr. Hazen is listed in the shoe business at 19 Broadway as far back as 1910. In 1930 he owned 36-40 Broadway and it was then known as Hazen's Block. He was then living at 24 Abeel street an interesting chateau style house, now owned and modernized by Louis Leifshitz. I understand from the top of that building can be seen a splendid view of the Hudson river.

Max and Fannie Hazen had two children, Joseph, who became a famous lawyer with Warner brothers, and its vice president and later was to join Hal Wallis in making outstanding movie hits. Shirley Hazen, his sister, was a school teacher for a number of years in our school system. She was charming and well liked, and has made trips to Kingston from time to time, sometimes with her cousins, the former Irene and Dorothy Joslovitz, whose mother, the late Jennie Joslovitz just died. The late Mrs. Joslovitz and the late Mrs. Hazen, were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Baker. No doubt many folks remember S. Baker's and Son at 7 East Strand where a variety of household items were sold. At the time Bakers owned what was known as "Baker's Flats" on Hasbrouck avenue, one of the better brick constructed buildings of that locality.

I notice in the 1916 Kingston City Directory Samuel and Max Baker (Max Baker is the brother of the late Jennie Joslovitz and Fannie Hazen) variety store at 7 East Strand and 642 Broadway, home at 102 Hasbrouck avenue. In years to come Max Baker and his wife Ida had a large building and store of furniture and household ware at 35 North Front street. I understand that London's now occupy both the former Baker building and the former building where Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Joslovitz had a large cloak and suit store at 33 North Front street. Brother and sister owned buildings alongside of each other. I often visited with both families, especially during nice summer days when we would chat on the sidewalk outside their establishments.

Young Driver Blamed

Beverly, Mass. (AP) — A 4-year-old boy and his 3-year-old brother have crashed their first truck. The boys were riding a toy fire engine on the sidewalk when they lost control. The truck went over the curbing and collided with a car that was coming to a stop for a traffic light. Both boys had to be taken to the hospital.

The Hazen family is fondly remembered in Rondout especially as Max Hazen for many years had a shoe store in this section. Back in 1916 his shoe store was at 19 Broadway and at the time he was proprietor of the famous Mansion House building. I see Mr. Hazen is listed in the shoe business at 19 Broadway as far back as 1910. In 1930 he owned 36-40 Broadway and it was then known as Hazen's Block. He was then living at 24 Abeel street an interesting chateau style house, now owned and modernized by Louis Leifshitz. I understand from the top of that building can be seen a splendid view of the Hudson river.

Max and Fannie Hazen had two children, Joseph, who became a famous lawyer with Warner brothers, and its vice president and later was to join Hal Wallis in making outstanding movie hits. Shirley Hazen, his sister, was a school teacher for a number of years in our school system. She was charming and well liked, and has made trips to Kingston from time to time, sometimes with her cousins, the former Irene and Dorothy Joslovitz, whose mother, the late Jennie Joslovitz just died. The late Mrs. Joslovitz and the late Mrs. Hazen, were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Baker. No doubt many folks remember S. Baker's and Son at 7 East Strand where a variety of household items were sold. At the time Bakers owned what was known as "Baker's Flats" on Hasbrouck avenue, one of the better brick constructed buildings of that locality.

I notice in the 1916 Kingston City Directory Samuel and Max Baker (Max Baker is the brother of the late Jennie Joslovitz and Fannie Hazen) variety store at 7 East Strand and 642 Broadway, home at 102 Hasbrouck avenue. In years to come Max Baker and his wife Ida had a large building and store of furniture and household ware at 35 North Front street. I understand that London's now occupy both the former Baker building and the former building where Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Joslovitz had a large cloak and suit store at 33 North Front street. Brother and sister owned buildings alongside of each other. I often visited with both families, especially during nice summer days when we would chat on the sidewalk outside their establishments.

Aldermen Urged To Aid Polio Drive

Mrs. John Hogan, of 49 German street, chairman of the Mothers' March of Dimes drive, at a Common Council meeting last night appealed for assistance of the aldermen in their respective wards when the drive is conducted here on Jan. 27.

The aldermen were asked to assist the mothers in their wards in finding their way to homes on the more difficult streets, and particularly to provide cars for those who do not have them.

Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly urged the aldermen to give their utmost support to the drive, and Mrs. Hogan stressed the city's excellent record. Kingston, she said, collected more than any city along the eastern seaboard as far south as a point in South Carolina. The goal this year is $10,000 in the Mothers' March.

Some old graves in Connecticut are covered with "wolf stones" which are flat stones designed to protect bodies from wolves.

Bonds Announced At Board Parley

Woodstock, Jan. 13—Presiding for the first time as the new town supervisor, Joseph Fitzsimmons conducted the first town board meeting of the year at the Town Hall Tuesday night. It was announced that the town bonds for the coming year will be as follows:

Bonds for supervisor covering the general fund, $35,000; covering the highway funds for the supervisor, $53,000; for the town clerk, Mrs. Clayton Harder, $50,000; for the councilmen, John Pike and Herbert Keefe, $500 each; for Roger Jones, deputy town clerk, $500; Joseph Forno, justice of the peace, $1,000; Albert Cashdollar, superintendent of highways, $1,000; Charles Farley, constable, $500; Montcena DeWitt, George Hopper and David Myer, who are constables at no yearly salary, $500 apiece. George Braendly, as justice of the peace, and Clarence Snyder, as the other paid constable are covered by bonds carried over from last year.

Fitzsimmons said that the report of George Haythorne, fire chief had been received, stating that 39 fires of varying descriptions had occurred during 1953.

Supervisor Joseph Fitzsimmons was appointed delegate and Joseph Forno, justice of the peace, was appointed alternate delegate to attend the Association of Town convention at the Hotel Statler in New York, Feb. 8, 9 and 10.

REC Program Renewed

The New York State Youth Recreation program was renewed and money appropriated in the town for this purpose will be duplicated by the state.

The Woodstock Branch of the Bank of Orange County was designed as the depository for funds being handled by the supervisor and town clerk for the year 1954.

Fitzsimmons also was designated as the welfare officer for the township for 1954, at no salary.

Harry Kutzschbach was appointed chairman of the board of assessors for the year 1954.

According to a mileage resolution, members of the town board, and the town clerk are reimbursed for travel on official business, amount not to exceed eight cents a mile.

Farley Gets Raise

Constable Charles Farley was given a raise in his annual salary by the town board. Constable Clarence Snyder will receive additional pay for weekend duty during the summer months and for time on duty during church hours Sundays. During the weekdays, Snyder is on duty from 8 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

David Myer, Montcena DeWitt and George Hopper were reappointed constables for the year 1954, and Birge Simmons, who has been appointed enforcement officer for the town of Woodstock for the state's multiple dwelling law, will receive a year's salary of $250. At present he will cover approximately 30 dwellings.

The new street lamp on Neher street, which was requested by Dr. William K. Gregory, will be installed at a cost to the town of $30.28 a year. The light was deemed necessary by a committee formed by the former supervisor, Kenneth Wilson.

David Myer said that he will donate $150 to the Recreation Fund, from money derived from the use of the Town Hall for the movie theatre on Thursday nights during the summer months. The Town Hall had formerly been in use on those Thursday nights for concerts of the Woodstock String Quartet, which were terminated in 1953.

Business Group Accepts Members

Woodstock, Jan. 13—Three new members were elected to the Woodstock Business Association at a meeting of the directors of the organization Monday at the home of Karl Cousins, secretary. They were Ronder & Ronder, real estate, the Woodstock Delivery Service and the Art Students League of New York.

The Association is continuing with plans for the preparation of a brochure which will be sent out in answer to any inquiries concerning Woodstock. Several hundred will be sent to various distribution points, including travel bureaus. The brochure will be in the form of a mailable souvenir of Woodstock and will show a map of the area, route maps from New York city with full information about where to go, what to do and what to see in Woodstock. Each member will be listed under a special classification suitable to his business or service.

Discussion concerning the Association's sign on Route 28, west of the Hurley post office, took place. Several directors expressed the opinion that it was too "cluttered" to be easily read by passing motorists. Warren Hutty was appointed as a committee of one to look into the matter and to have the sign repainted, using paint that will illuminate the sign at night. It was also noted that complaints have been received that the sign pointing to Woodstock on Route 28, at the junction of Route 275, was encumbered with private signs of the business establishment located on the far side of the road. This matter was referred to Ed Bauman as a committee of one to give it attention.

The regular monthly members' meeting will take place next Monday, Jan. 18, at Deanie's upstairs dining room at 8 p. m.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Railroads headed a rally in the stock market today that sent prices higher for the second straight session.

Rails displayed some of the better gains, going to around a point at the outside. No section of the market was neglected.

Trading interest quickened when prices firmed. That kept volume at a pace well ahead of yesterday's million and a quarter shares.

Favorites following the railroads were the oils, steels, and chemicals. Also higher were the motors, aircrafts, radio-televisions, coppers, air lines, movies, building materials, and utilities.

Missouri Pacific preferred, up 4 points yesterday, gained better than a point today, all a result of a move to speed up reorganization proceedings.

Bowlatorium Report Has No Confirmation

At a meeting of the Ulster County Building Trades Council Tuesday evening it was reported International Business Machines Corp., of Poughkeepsie, had entered into an agreement to lease the Bowlatorium on Grand street for office use during construction of a plant north of Kingston and that preliminary work would be under way at the town of Ulster site about February 1.

A check of that report made this morning with an official of the council brought forth the information that the statement was not official and had been a "report made by someone at the meeting."

At the Poughkeepsie office of IBM an official in the office of William J. Mair, vice president of the corporation, said the reported lease of the Bowlatorium was unfounded. It was said that as soon as a definite plan had been reached in regard to local operations an announcement would be forthcoming.

AEC Tells Navy To Stop Letters

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission has passed word to the navy to do something to stop those chatty and descriptive letters sent home by military personnel who see the big and supposedly secret atomic tests in the Pacific.

Recalling a number of letters from task force personnel who witnessed the test of a hydrogen explosive device at Eniwetok in the fall of 1952, a reporter asked the AEC what would be done to prevent similar disclosures in the forthcoming series of tests at which an H-weapon is expected to be used.

An AEC spokesman replied: "The task force is expected to have adequate measures in force to safeguard security restricted data."

At the Pentagon, it was explained that the commander of every ship and of installations ashore will be ordered to see to it that each individual in his command receives specific instructions against writing any personal letters to anyone describing or otherwise hinting at what he may see in a test. In the 1952 test, some crew members were said not to have been cautioned against letter writing.

A pilot and a motorist each reported seeing the ball of flame crash to the ground north of Cleveland in Oswego county.

To loosen the metal top of a glass jar?

Wrap a cloth around the metal top, and hold top under hot water for a few minutes. Since metal and glass have different rates of expansion, the hot water causes metal to expand faster than glass. After a moment the top should unscrew easily.

Aldermen Urged To Aid Polio Drive

Mrs. John Hogan, of 49 German street, chairman of the Mothers' March of Dimes drive, at a Common Council meeting last night appealed for assistance of the aldermen in their respective wards when the drive is conducted here on Jan. 27.

The aldermen were asked to assist the mothers in their wards in finding their way to homes on the more difficult streets, and particularly to provide cars for those who do not have them.

Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly urged the aldermen to give their utmost support to the drive, and Mrs. Hogan stressed the city's excellent record. Kingston, she said, collected more than any city along the eastern seaboard as far south as a point in South Carolina. The goal this year is $10,000 in the Mothers' March.

Bonds Announced At Board Parley

Woodstock, Jan. 13—Presiding for the first time as the new town supervisor, Joseph Fitzsimmons conducted the first town board meeting of the year at the Town Hall Tuesday night. It was announced that the town bonds for the coming year will be as follows:

Bonds for supervisor covering the general fund, $35,000; covering the highway funds for the supervisor, $53,000; for the town clerk, Mrs. Clayton Harder, $50,000; for the councilmen, John Pike and Herbert Keefe, $500 each; for Roger Jones, deputy town clerk, $500; Joseph Forno, justice of the peace, $1,000; Albert Cashdollar, superintendent of highways, $1,000; Charles Farley, constable, $500; Montcena DeWitt, George Hopper and David Myer, who are constables at no yearly salary, $500 apiece. George Braendly, as justice of the peace, and Clarence Snyder, as the other paid constable are covered by bonds carried over from last year.

Fitzsimmons said that the report of George Haythorne, fire chief had been received, stating that 39 fires of varying descriptions had occurred during 1953.

Supervisor Joseph Fitzsimmons was appointed delegate and Joseph Forno, justice of the peace, was appointed alternate delegate to attend the Association of Town convention at the Hotel Statler in New York, Feb. 8, 9 and 10.

REC Program Renewed

The New York State Youth Recreation program was renewed and money appropriated in the town for this purpose will be duplicated by the state.

The Woodstock Branch of the Bank of Orange County was designed as the depository for funds being handled by the supervisor and town clerk for the year 1954.

Fitzsimmons also was designated as the welfare officer for the township for 1954, at no salary.

Harry Kutzschbach was appointed chairman of the board of assessors for the year 1954.

According to a mileage resolution, members of the town board, and the town clerk are reimbursed for travel on official business, amount not to exceed eight cents a mile.

Farley Gets Raise

Constable Charles Farley was given a raise in his annual salary by the town board. Constable Clarence Snyder will receive additional pay for weekend duty during the summer months and for time on duty during church hours Sundays. During the weekdays, Snyder is on duty from 8 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

David Myer, Montcena DeWitt and George Hopper were reappointed constables for the year 1954, and Birge Simmons, who has been appointed enforcement officer for the town of Woodstock for the state's multiple dwelling law, will receive a year's salary of $250. At present he will cover approximately 30 dwellings.

The new street lamp on Neher street, which was requested by Dr. William K. Gregory, will be installed at a cost to the town of $30.28 a year. The light was deemed necessary by a committee formed by the former supervisor, Kenneth Wilson.

David Myer said that he will donate $150 to the Recreation Fund, from money derived from the use of the Town Hall for the movie theatre on Thursday nights during the summer months. The Town Hall had formerly been in use on those Thursday nights for concerts of the Woodstock String Quartet, which were terminated in 1953.

Business Group Accepts Members

Woodstock, Jan. 13—Three new members were elected to the Woodstock Business Association at a meeting of the directors of the organization Monday at the home of Karl Cousins, secretary. They were Ronder & Ronder, real estate, the Woodstock Delivery Service and the Art Students League of New York.

The Association is continuing with plans for the preparation of a brochure which will be sent out in answer to any inquiries concerning Woodstock. Several hundred will be sent to various distribution points, including travel bureaus. The brochure will be in the form of a mailable souvenir of Woodstock and will show a map of the area, route maps from New York city with full information about where to go, what to do and what to see in Woodstock. Each member will be listed under a special classification suitable to his business or service.

Discussion concerning the Association's sign on Route 28, west of the Hurley post office, took place. Several directors expressed the opinion that it was too "cluttered" to be easily read by passing motorists. Warren Hutty was appointed as a committee of one to look into the matter and to have the sign repainted, using paint that will illuminate the sign at night. It was also noted that complaints have been received that the sign pointing to Woodstock on Route 28, at the junction of Route 275, was encumbered with private signs of the business establishment located on the far side of the road. This matter was referred to Ed Bauman as a committee of one to give it attention.

The regular monthly members' meeting will take place next Monday, Jan. 18, at Deanie's upstairs dining room at 8 p. m.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Railroads headed a rally in the stock market today that sent prices higher for the second straight session.

Rails displayed some of the better gains, going to around a point at the outside. No section of the market was neglected.

Trading interest quickened when prices firmed. That kept volume at a pace well ahead of yesterday's million and a quarter shares.

Favorites following the railroads were the oils, steels, and chemicals. Also higher were the motors, aircrafts, radio-televisions, coppers, air lines, movies, building materials, and utilities.

Missouri Pacific preferred, up 4 points yesterday, gained better than a point today, all a result of a move to speed up reorganization proceedings.

Bowlatorium Report Has No Confirmation

At a meeting of the Ulster County Building Trades Council Tuesday evening it was reported International Business Machines Corp., of Poughkeepsie, had entered into an agreement to lease the Bowlatorium on Grand street for office use during construction of a plant north of Kingston and that preliminary work would be under way at the town of Ulster site about February 1.

A check of that report made this morning with an official of the council brought forth the information that the statement was not official and had been a "report made by someone at the meeting."

At the Poughkeepsie office of IBM an official in the office of William J. Mair, vice president of the corporation, said the reported lease of the Bowlatorium was unfounded. It was said that as soon as a definite plan had been reached in regard to local operations an announcement would be forthcoming.

AEC Tells Navy To Stop Letters

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission has passed word to the navy to do something to stop those chatty and descriptive letters sent home by military personnel who see the big and supposedly secret atomic tests in the Pacific.

Recalling a number of letters from task force personnel who witnessed the test of a hydrogen explosive device at Eniwetok in the fall of 1952, a reporter asked the AEC what would be done to prevent similar disclosures in the forthcoming series of tests at which an H-weapon is expected to be used.

An AEC spokesman replied: "The task force is expected to have adequate measures in force to safeguard security restricted data."

At the Pentagon, it was explained that the commander of every ship and of installations ashore will be ordered to see to it that each individual in his command receives specific instructions against writing any personal letters to anyone describing or otherwise hinting at what he may see in a test. In the 1952 test, some crew members were said not to have been cautioned against letter writing.

Fiery Ball Is Seen

Syracuse, Jan. 13 (AP)—Hundreds of persons in New York state today reported seeing a fiery ball in the sky and the control tower at Hancock Field here said the object was a meteorite. First reports of the sightings touched off a search for a crashed airplane in the Mohawk river area near Troy and the Rome-Utica area. A pilot and a motorist each reported seeing the ball of flame crash to the ground north of Cleveland in Oswego county.

when they returned to the hotel.

The alarm was telephone to Mutual Aid headquarters in Kingston at 12:50 p. m., and Esopus Fire Department was dispatched under Chief Harry Maines. At 1:10 p. m., additional aid was requested through Mutual Aid and the Port Ewen department was dispatched, with Chief Edward Mains in charge.

About 50 Years Old

The original frame building was approximately 50 years old, but had been faced with brick on three sides during the 1930's. Improved by the Kuntz family, it was operated under the name of Golden Rule Inn and became a popular dining place during the 1930's. Its large dining room and dance floor were the scene of many gatherings and annual banquets during the years the hotel was in its heyday.

Had Varied Ownerships

In more recent years, the hotel had a varied ownership. It was purchased from Kuntz by William Singer, and later sold to the Diabetic Association of New York, which planned to develop a health camp there. Considerable work was done on the premises. It was re-sold, however, to another corporation, and then changed hands several times before being acquired by the present owner, who, it was reported, had recently installed a complete new heating system and had other plans for renovation.

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—The army today issued a draft call for 18,000 men in March.

The March quota is the same as that previously announced for February, when the Selective Service call was reduced from the 23,000 level maintained since last July.

Wholesale Food Highest in 2 Years

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Wholesale food prices as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet index reached the highest point this week in nearly two and one-half years.

Sharp advances by coffee, cocoa and other commodities sent the index to $7.03, the highest since June 19, 1951, when it registered $7.07.

The index gained 2.6 per cent over last week's $6.85. In the same week a year ago the figure was $6.25.

In addition to coffee and cocoa, commodities advancing this week included wheat, barley, beef, hams, bellies, tea, eggs, raisins, prunes, steers, hogs and lambs. Lower were flour, corn, rye, oats, lard, butter and cottonseed oil.

Methodists Gain 7,389 Members in N. Y. Conference

The New York Methodist Conference, which comprises Kingston, Poughkeepsie and the Newburgh Districts as well as most of Manhattan, the Bronx and Westchester county, added 7,389 new members or a 10 per cent gain during the 1953 Methodist Evangelistic Mission.

These figures were released today by Bishop Frederick Buckley Newell who said that 27,104 members were added to the Methodist churches of the New York area as a result of the campaign.

The new members represent an eight per cent gain in the New York area which now numbers 365,480 Methodists. Of the 27,104 added during the campaign, Bishop Newell pointed out that 7,314 are transfers from other churches and 19,190 are becoming affiliated with a church for the first time.

Layman Part Stressed

Stressing the part laymen played in the membership drive, Bishop Newell points out that 14,541 parish visitors made 75,502 calls on neighbors and friends to invite them to join the Methodist Church.

The four Conferences or subdivisions of the area shared in the results as follows:

New York East Conference which includes Brooklyn, Long Island and the eatern section of Manhattan, Westchester county and Connecticut, 7,137 new members or a seven per cent gain; Troy Conference, including the Albany, Troy, Glens Falls Districts and the entire state of Vermont, 5,732 new members or a 6.6 per cent gain; Newark Conference which covers the northeastern half of New Jersey and Staten Island, 6,846 new members or an 8.8 per cent gain.

Mandell Sedan Skids Into Tractor-Trailer

The left front fender of a 1951 sedan was damaged late yesterday morning when the car skidded on Route 209 about a half mile north of Ellenville and struck the rear of a 1947 tractor-trailer, Ellenville State Police reported.

The sedan was following the tractor-trailer, both traveling south, when the truck slowed to make a left turn into a diner, troopers said.

The sedan, operated by Dr. Harold Mandell of 90 Harding avenue, skidded into the truck, after the brakes were applied, according to the report by troopers. The truck, owned by the Cooperative Grange League, Ithaca, was operated by Wilbur Rhenow of Troy.

Mrs. Mandell was a passenger in the vehicle operated by her husband. Troopers said there were no injuries.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator received an interesting communication from a contrarian friend which suggests the theme for this week's contrary column.

He writes about "emotional responses" to news items and news events.

Inasmuch as the theory of contrary opinon is based upon emotional reactions and mental responses — that, in turn, became what is thought of as "mass psychology"—it is worth our while to review the subject occasionally.

He illustrates his ideas to me by taking headlines from a recent newspaper article wherein the business and financial events of the past year were discussed.

These particular headlines, it should be pointed out, are more in conflict with each other than would be commonly found (because they cover a year of business cross-currents). But they are excellent for illustrating how emotional responses can easily become confounded and twisted.

Here are the four headlines over an article reviewing 1953, together with my correspondent's imagined "responses":—

ROBUST ECONOMY OF U. S. SMASHES MANY RECORDS — CONFOUNDS ALARMISTS

(Response: Whee, ain't we good!)

UNFAVORABLE SIGNS MARK END OF '53

Response Omigosh. That ain't so hot!)

Industrial Plant Expanding at Annual Rate of $28,000,000,000—Credit Is Abundant (Response:' Oh, well I guess we're O.K. for now).

Stocks Weaken After a Long Rise

(Response: Oh, oh; didn't this happen before the last depression?)

Reading through the article, you get the same conflicting ideas; booming business in the year past, but warning and "doubts" that prevail as the record year ends.

As I mentioned above, this is not altogether a fair example to use, because in reviewing one year and thinking ahead to the next a commentator has to "cover" both sides. However, it is a perfect example to use in reminding us to examine headlines and articles in a contrary manner. I mean by that, we contrarians have to think of the emotional responses which events and reports will create as well as to simply read the reports.

Taking the recent voluminous year-end reports and predictions as a whole, there is not much question what the general response is in people's minds. It is that 1954 is going to be good business year; not perhaps reaching the records of 1953, but "the second best year" anyway. The "adjustments" in certain fields of business will be "mild" and probably brief. Altogether the "experts" expect a slight recession of, perhaps, five per cent overall.

That seems to be the way the year starts out, as the Ruminator has tried to sum up the composite "opinion."

Which leaves us, of course, with a double-edged contrary outlook: A slump of greater than a modest five per cent, or a renewal of the boom.

Actually, which contrary development will occur is unpredictable. We can only guess, because so much depends upon public psychology. However, considering "emotional responses" to prevailing propaganda and the President's promised intervention to aid prosperity, it might be a better guess to look for more boom conditions prior to the long-expected slump.

Nevertheless, we have to keep in mind that public psychology is a mercurial thing. Sentiment can change overnight; emotional responses are flighty. So you cannot be dogmatic and be sure of your ground in attempting to predict economic trends. Additionally, there are numerous events-to-come—particularly in international relationships—which can shift "opinions" rapidly. Day by day, we shall need to observe this problem of "emotional responses" to news.

Thousands Work To Reach Villages In Austrian Alps

Vienna, Austria, Jan. 13 (AP)—Thousands of rescue workers struggled today to uncover at least 135 persons still missing under snow and ruins in the avalanche-stricken Alps of West Austria and Switzerland. There and in Bavarian Germany 86 already were listed among the "white dead."

Only minor slides, which caused no damage, were reported during the night, and colder weather brought hope the snow movement was letting up. But a Vienna weather official warned that west Austria's average temperatures still were above normal and there still was danger of more avalanches.

This was the toll so far from the snowslides which began Monday, in the wake of the winter's worst blizzards:

Austria—62 dead, 131 missing.
Switzerland—18 dead, 4 missing.
Bavarian Germany—6 dead.

Near Swiss Frontier

The center of tragedy was the 12-mile Walser valley of west Austria, near the Swiss frontier. There hundreds of rescue skiers from Austria, Switzerland and Liechtenstein worked frantically seeking the dead and injured in homes in Blons and six other villages all wiped out by two massive avalanches.

The first rescuers who reached the isolated valley reported 28 persons were believed dead, 72 were missing and 23 were badly injured. In some villages only one or two houses were still standing.

The U. S. Army loaded three big cargo helicopters with medicines, doctors and a dog team for the stricken area. The aircraft, after delivering their cargo, were to fly injured out.

Train is Delayed

Rescue work continued, too, in Dalaas, also in the Vorarlberg sector, where eight persons were still missing. A huge snowslide yesterday swept over the railroad station and a delayed train waiting at the platform there. Five persons died under the snow and and 36 others, some injured, were rescued.

Elswere in the Vorarlberg and in the Ziller valley of the Tyrol, hundreds of police continued searches in the Schruns, Bartholomaeberg, Mindiola, St. Gerold, Fuegenberg and a number of other stricken villages. Countless Austrians, tourists and mountain rescue squads aided.

There are 1000 species of bats in the world, many colored in oranges and reds, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Mystery of Third Foot Solved

The NEA photo at left, showing Russian Ambassador Georgi Zarubin arriving at the State Department in Washington, caused a lot of people to wonder who owned the third foot. The mystery was cleared up when the picture on the right was shown. The owner of the third foot was Walter Stoessil (left in right photo), head of the State Department's Soviet Union Department. Thousands Work To Reach Villages In Austrian Alps

Vienna, Austria, Jan. 13 (AP)—Thousands of rescue workers struggled today to uncover at least 135 persons still missing under snow and ruins in the avalanche-stricken Alps of West Austria and Switzerland. There and in Bavarian Germany 86 already were listed among the "white dead."

Only minor slides, which caused no damage, were reported during the night, and colder weather brought hope the snow movement was letting up. But a Vienna weather official warned that west Austria's average temperatures still were above normal and there still was danger of more avalanches.

This was the toll so far from the snowslides which began Monday, in the wake of the winter's worst blizzards:

Austria—62 dead, 131 missing.
Switzerland—18 dead, 4 missing.
Bavarian Germany—6 dead.

Near Swiss Frontier

The center of tragedy was the 12-mile Walser valley of west Austria, near the Swiss frontier. There hundreds of rescue skiers from Austria, Switzerland and Liechtenstein worked frantically seeking the dead and injured in homes in Blons and six other villages all wiped out by two massive avalanches.

The first rescuers who reached the isolated valley reported 28 persons were believed dead, 72 were missing and 23 were badly injured. In some villages only one or two houses were still standing.

The U. S. Army loaded three big cargo helicopters with medicines, doctors and a dog team for the stricken area. The aircraft, after delivering their cargo, were to fly injured out.

Train is Delayed

Rescue work continued, too, in Dalaas, also in the Vorarlberg sector, where eight persons were still missing. A huge snowslide yesterday swept over the railroad station and a delayed train waiting at the platform there. Five persons died under the snow and and 36 others, some injured, were rescued.

Elswere in the Vorarlberg and in the Ziller valley of the Tyrol, hundreds of police continued searches in the Schruns, Bartholomaeberg, Mindiola, St. Gerold, Fuegenberg and a number of other stricken villages. Countless Austrians, tourists and mountain rescue squads aided.

There are 1000 species of bats in the world, many colored in oranges and reds, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Silver Jewelry, Bridge Among New Classes In Hobbies at YWCA

The increased interest in hobbies of all kinds is being answered at the Kingston YWCA through hobby classes in many fields.

A list of classes to be given this season are as follows: bridge for beginners, four-week term, taught by Mrs. Fred Port; bronze stencilling, six week term, taught by Mrs. Clement Angstrom; glove making, six-week term, taught by Mrs. Vincent Carr; hooked rugs, six-week term, taught by Mrs. Sadie Wiseman; knitting, six-week term, taught by Miss Marcia Clark; silver jewelry, eight-week term, taught by Mrs. Richard O. Gruver; slip covers, six-week term, taught by Mrs. Kenneth Martin; sketching, six-week term, taught by Miss Emily Hoysradt.

These instructors and their work are known to almost everyone since most of them had booths at the Hudson Valley Hobby Show within the last two years. The many requests for instruction at the Hobby Show prompted the YWCA to encourage these classes.

Registration is now being taken at the Y, and the classes will begin next week. Information regarding fees and starting dates can be obtained by calling the YWCA, 1911.

G. W. Carver Honored In Memorial Program At AME Zion Church

A George Washington Carver Memorial program was held at the Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion Church, Sunday, Jan. 10 at 3 p. m.

Included on the program were: The Negro national anthem, by the entire congregation; Invocation — the Rev. Sampson M. Greene; Solo — When I've Done the Best I Can, by Mrs. Ernest Cannine; Introduction to the Life of George Washington Carver— Miss Mary J. Crispell; Soprano solo—Miss Virginia Simms.

Also on the program were: Original Reading—The Life of Dr. Carver—Miss Rose Marie Crispell; clarinet solo—Howard Irvis; Original reading—The Works of Dr. Carver—Mrs. Howell Singleton; selection—Jesus Is All the World to Me—by the Simmons' Harmony Queens of New Central Baptist Church accompanied by Mrs. William Washington, also of New Central Baptist Church; soprano solo— My Task, by Ashford, sung by Mrs. Louise Bryant; address—Carver, World Benefactor — by Henry S. Van Der Zee; closing remarks and benediction — the Rev. Sampson M. Greene.

In her talk, The Life of Dr. Carver, Miss Crispell said that Carver began his interest in plant life at an early age, displaying courage in the face of obstacles to his education in the field of agriculture. Studying at Simpson College in Iowa, he proved such an able student that he was engaged as assistant botanist at the school after his graduation. His contribution to the Southern farmers through his work at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, was the development of over 300 products of the lowly peanut, providing food products for a balanced diet.

Mrs. Singleton pointed out, in her review of the works of Dr. Carver, that he had received the Spingarn Medal in 1923, at the 14th annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, for his contributions to mankind. Other developments to Carver's credit are dyes from clay, dandelions, onions and beans; from the sweet potato, over 118 different substances including starch, vinegar and shoe blackening, library paste and candy.

It is said of him that he asked God, "What is a peanut? "and why did you make it?" And that he received the answer, "Ye shall know science and science shall set thee free."

Berkshire Festival To Have Additional Concerts for Season

A new plan has been devised by Charles Munch, the conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, to extend the scope of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., next summer.

According to his plan, the concerts by the full orchestra in the Music Shed will be given each Saturday evening and each Sunday afternoon through the six weeks from July 5 to August 15. The concerts by the orchestra of chamber proportions in the Theatre-Concert Hall will now be given each Friday evening preceding the weekend Shed concerts. Together with the performances by the students of the Berkshire Music Center, this will result in six weeks of daily performances on an identical rotation through each week.

The Munch plan will thus provide 12 Festival concerts in the Shed instead of nine as before, and six Bach-Mozart concerts in the Theatre as before, but now on a once a week basis. In addition to the Berkshire Festival performances, a series of chamber music concerts at moderate prices will be given by different ensembles in the Theatre on the six Wednesday evenings.

The 1954 Berkshire Festival will therefore consist of four concerts a week (Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday) for six weeks, or 24 concerts in all.

G. W. Carver Honored In Memorial Program At AME Zion Church

A George Washington Carver Memorial program was held at the Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion Church, Sunday, Jan. 10 at 3 p. m.

Included on the program were: The Negro national anthem, by the entire congregation; Invocation — the Rev. Sampson M. Greene; Solo — When I've Done the Best I Can, by Mrs. Ernest Cannine; Introduction to the Life of George Washington Carver—Miss Mary J. Crispell; Soprano solo—Miss Virginia Simms.

Also on the program were: Original Reading—The Life of Dr. Carver—Miss Rose Marie Crispell; clarinet solo—Howard Irvis; Original reading—The Works of Dr. Carver—Mrs. Howell Singleton; selection—Jesus Is All the World to Me—by the Simmons' Harmony Queens of New Central Baptist Church accompanied by Mrs. William Washington, also of New Central Baptist Church; soprano solo— My Task, by Ashford, sung by Mrs. Louise Bryant; address—Carver, World Benefactor — by Henry S. Van Der Zee; closing remarks and benediction — the Rev. Sampson M. Greene.

In her talk, The Life of Dr. Carver, Miss Crispell said that Carver began his interest in plant life at an early age, displaying courage in the face of obstacles to his education in the field of agriculture. Studying at Simpson College in Iowa, he proved such an able student that he was engaged as assistant botanist at the school after his graduation. His contribution to the Southern farmers through his work at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, was the development of over 300 products of the lowly peanut, providing food products for a balanced diet.

Mrs. Singleton pointed out, in her review of the works of Dr. Carver, that he had received the Spingarn Medal in 1923, at the 14th annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, for his contributions to mankind. Other developments to Carver's credit are dyes from clay, dandelions, onions and beans; from the sweet potato, over 118 different substances including starch, vinegar and shoe blackening, library paste and candy.

It is said of him that he asked God, "What is a peanut? "and why did you make it?" And that he received the answer, "Ye shall know science and science shall set thee free."

Berkshire Festival To Have Additional Concerts for Season

A new plan has been devised by Charles Munch, the conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, to extend the scope of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., next summer.

According to his plan, the concerts by the full orchestra in the Music Shed will be given each Saturday evening and each Sunday afternoon through the six weeks from July 5 to August 15. The concerts by the orchestra of chamber proportions in the Theatre-Concert Hall will now be given each Friday evening preceding the weekend Shed concerts. Together with the performances by the students of the Berkshire Music Center, this will result in six weeks of daily performances on an identical rotation through each week.

The Munch plan will thus provide 12 Festival concerts in the Shed instead of nine as before, and six Bach-Mozart concerts in the Theatre as before, but now on a once a week basis. In addition to the Berkshire Festival performances, a series of chamber music concerts at moderate prices will be given by different ensembles in the Theatre on the six Wednesday evenings.

The 1954 Berkshire Festival will therefore consist of four concerts a week (Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday) for six weeks, or 24 concerts in all.

WEDDING PRESENTS

A bride-to-be writes: "After my marriage, I plan to go to my fiance's hometown which is several hundred miles from here, to live. We are having a rather large wedding and I am sure I will receive many wedding presents. I would like these presents sent to my fiance's house rather than here as they will only have to be packed and shipped there later. Is there any way I can let this fact be known?"

You can explain the situation to your most intimate friends and relatives and ask them to please send any wedding presents to Dick's house, and they in turn might tell others. But to send a general notice to this effect to all the wedding guests would be impossible.

Needless Extravagance

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter was married two months ago and at that time I bought a rather expensive dress for the occasion. I have not worn that dress since. My son is going to be married in three weeks and I would like to know if I could properly wear the same dress to his wedding. My daughter and son both think I should get a new dress as many of the same guests will be present and recognize the dress. I would like to have your opinion on this.

Answer: If I were you, I would wear the dress without the slightest hesitation. To get another for a single occasion would be wanton extravagance. Perhaps you can change the appearance of the dress, somewhat, by adding new accessories.

Junior League Plans Sponsoring Another Play for Area Children

Mrs. Gifford Beal reported that more than 400 children attended the Junior League sponsored performance of John Beggs Ballet Theatre, given at the Washington School, December 30.

The program, a new form of children's theatre, was greatly enjoyed, according to Mrs. Beal. Plans were made by the children's theatre committee to bring another play to the schools this spring for the younger grades and kindergarten.

Mrs. John Roberts reported at the meeting of the Junior League, on behalf of the loan closet, the gift of a wheelchair and announced that another one had been purchased through gifts received during the year by the committee. Plans were made to purchase a walker in answer to many requests.

A group has been formed in Saugerties among the Junior League members there to visit the several nursing homes, in the same manner as the cheer chain functions in and around Kingston. The Allen Russell Finger Home, Dale Sanitarium, and Jodat Sanitarium have been visited by a member or two every week who does errands and brings cheer to the patients.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Amos Newcombe with Mrs. Sherwood Davis presiding. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Lloyd Newcombe and Mrs. Randolph Winston.

Junior League Plans Sponsoring Another Play for Area Children

Mrs. Gifford Beal reported that more than 400 children attended the Junior League sponsored performance of John Beggs Ballet Theatre, given at the Washington School, December 30.

The program, a new form of children's theatre, was greatly enjoyed, according to Mrs. Beal. Plans were made by the children's theatre committee to bring another play to the schools this spring for the younger grades and kindergarten.

Mrs. John Roberts reported at the meeting of the Junior League, on behalf of the loan closet, the gift of a wheelchair and announced that another one had been purchased through gifts received during the year by the committee. Plans were made to purchase a walker in answer to many requests.

A group has been formed in Saugerties among the Junior League members there to visit the several nursing homes, in the same manner as the cheer chain functions in and around Kingston. The Allen Russell Finger Home, Dale Sanitarium, and Jodat Sanitarium have been visited by a member or two every week who does errands and brings cheer to the patients.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Amos Newcombe with Mrs. Sherwood Davis presiding. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Lloyd Newcombe and Mrs. Randolph Winston.

At one time during the American Civil War, Gen. George B. McClellan, then in command of the Union forces, was conducting a waiting campaign; and so careful was he to avoid mistakes that little headway was evident, President Lincoln thereupon wrote him a letter:

"My dear McClellan: If you don't want to use the Army I should like to borrow it for a while. Yours respectfully, A. Lincoln."

I met my wife at a travel bureau. She was looking for a vacation, and I was the last resort.

Mr. Blake—Just hold on a minute while I ask her!

A gold-digger had died and all her worldly possessions, including a parrot, were being auctioned off.

Vera Maxwell Uses Austrian, Danish Fabrics in Styles

By DOROTHY ROE
(AP Women's Editor)

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—The weather—and the travel habits of American women—are ruling factors in designer Vera Maxwell's wearable and colorful collection of spring fashions.

The globe-trotting Vera explored Denmark, Austria and Bavaria to get inspiration for her current series, and comes up with a distinguished group of Danish print cottons, hand-woven flax linens from Bavaria and Austrian details such as green velvet collars on linen coats.

Miss Maxwell, an inveterate traveler herself, has concentrated on travel costumes for a number of years, featuring dress-and-coat combinations which can be dressed up or down for various occasions. This season her prize outfit is a straight coat of chiffon-weight camel's hair lined in a liberty print silk matching the accompanying dress with adjustable wraparound bodice in the favorite Maxwell manner.

She also shows a camel coat with gray and beige striped Dacron dress and lining, which resists wrinkling and easy to keep on a long trip.

Box Pleats in Loose Coats

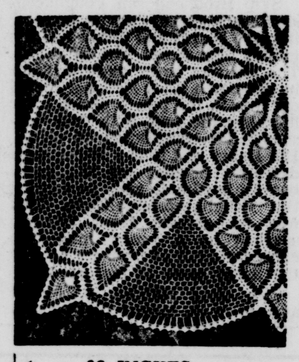

A suit of Bavarian hand-woven flax linen in natural color has a blouse and jacket lining of red plaid cotton and a green velvet collar. Another highlight is a loose coat of yellow linen with a Chinese print, lined in solid-color blue linen to match the sheath dress that goes with it.

Vincent Monte Sano makes news with loose, soft coats that achieve fullness by means of box pleats falling from shoulder yokes, sometimes belted in just below the shoulder blades. The pleats permit a slim effect with actual fullness.

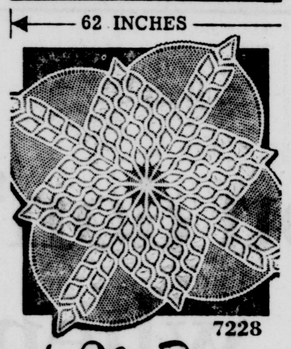

Belted suits are important in the Monte Sano spring collection, one recurrent model having a soft shirt top belted at the natural waistline. Another suit has fitted midriff jacket suggesting the high Empire waistline.

Black and navy silk coats, fitted or loose, are important in this collection, as they are throughout the New York wholesale market.

Vera Maxwell Uses Austrian, Danish Fabrics in Styles

By DOROTHY ROE
(AP Women's Editor)

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—The weather—and the travel habits of American women—are ruling factors in designer Vera Maxwell's wearable and colorful collection of spring fashions.

The globe-trotting Vera explored Denmark, Austria and Bavaria to get inspiration for her current series, and comes up with a distinguished group of Danish print cottons, hand-woven flax linens from Bavaria and Austrian details such as green velvet collars on linen coats.

Miss Maxwell, an inveterate traveler herself, has concentrated on travel costumes for a number of years, featuring dress-and-coat combinations which can be dressed up or down for various occasions. This season her prize outfit is a straight coat of chiffon-weight camel's hair lined in a liberty print silk matching the accompanying dress with adjustable wraparound bodice in the favorite Maxwell manner.

She also shows a camel coat with gray and beige striped Dacron dress and lining, which resists wrinkling and easy to keep on a long trip.

Box Pleats in Loose Coats

A suit of Bavarian hand-woven flax linen in natural color has a blouse and jacket lining of red plaid cotton and a green velvet collar. Another highlight is a loose coat of yellow linen with a Chinese print, lined in solid-color blue linen to match the sheath dress that goes with it.

Vincent Monte Sano makes news with loose, soft coats that achieve fullness by means of box pleats falling from shoulder yokes, sometimes belted in just below the shoulder blades. The pleats permit a slim effect with actual fullness.

Belted suits are important in the Monte Sano spring collection, one recurrent model having a soft shirt top belted at the natural waistline. Another suit has fitted midriff jacket suggesting the high Empire waistline.

Black and navy silk coats, fitted or loose, are important in this collection, as they are throughout the New York wholesale market.

It was 35-35 in a bristling basketball game at jampacked Kate Walton Field House last night and the swiftly changing fortunes made the final outcome a matter of serious apprehension for Poughkeepsie and Kingston partisans.

But, as often happens in the crucible of athletic pressure during a "big one," a hero emerged from an unexpected quarter—for Kingston High.

Those who saw John Godwin's third period performance against the favored Blues will never forget it.

In less than a half dozen minutes he turned a tight, tense battle into a shambles as Kingston blasted Sam Kalloch's prides off the court with a 31-point spree and went on to crush unbeaten Poughkeepsie, 81-60, for one of Coach G. Warren Kias' most notable triumphs in 26 years of basketball coaching.

The Godwin-inspired victory was Kingston's fifth straight and is regarded as the key conquest of the 1953-54 campaign. From here on out the pressure is on the rest of the field, although Newburgh Academy kept pace last night by romping over Ellenville, 64-48, for its fourth straight.

Scores Six in Hurry

Kingston adherents expected big things from Skip Brodhead and Dick Bezemer and got them, but Godwin coming off the bench, to bust the game wide open was a thrilling, if unexpected, turn of events for the delirious Kingston rooters.

Godwin hit six baskets in that blistering third quarter, seemingly in succession, as Kingston quickly ran up a 10 point lead, 49-39, and left the powerful Blues a badly battered outfit and Coach Kalloch a pale and blanched coach on the bench.

Godwin scored 19 points and he'll never get 12 more important ones than during that sensational run.

Brodhead Scores 27

Skip Brodhead ran Poughkeepsie's crack guard, Charlie Johnson, into the boards and finished as the game's high scorer with 27 points. The kid was never more brilliant in the clutch. Dick Bezemer fouled out late in the fourth period after finishing the half with four personals. He contributed 20 points. Bill Haber and Bucky Miller were defensive demons off the backboards, hawking and harrassing the Poughkeepsie offense. This was an artistic team triumph sparked by a young man who came from out of nowhere to play the finest game of his career.

Only Gary Mendez, a 27-point average man, looked like an All-DUSO operator for Poughkeepsie. He racked up 25 points and was able to hit with consistency through four periods. The other candidate, Don Dahowski, seemed to be under terrific pressure and was limited to only three baskets and ten points. One was a sleeper against the subs in the closing seconds.

It was obvious from the start that Johnson, the superlative guard, would not contain Brodhead and Bezemer had his shooting irons working. But until Kingston made its move at 35-35 the issue was in doubt.

Bucky Miller and Brodhead opened the first appreciable margin with two quick baskets and a 14-9 lead in the first quarter.

It was touch and go to the half with tie scores at 14-14, 28-28 and 30-30 at the intermission. Poughkeepsie's defense was amazingly clean and the Blues had only two foul calls against them in the first half.

Blues Lost Lead

Phillips' layup sent the Blues ahead for the last time, 32-30, on the tapoff to start the second half. Brodhead tied it at 32-32. Godwin's basket regained the lead for Kingston, 34-32. In the next few minutes the spectators saw Godwin run wild. He ripped in 10 points, Skip Brodhead nine and Bezemer hit six. Quickly it was 49-39 and Poughkeepsie's back was broken.

The third period ended 61-47 and even though Kingston adopted a more deliberate pattern they were able to outscore the Blues, 20-14. Kalloch didn't make a substitution until late in the fourth quarter when Ronnie Bub replaced Charlie Johnson, the football wizard who had experienced a frantic night searching for a ghost named Brodhead. Coach Kias sent Jack Houghtaling, Bob Maines and Joe Markle in for the last two minutes.

Held to a 25-25 standoff at halftime, Newburgh Academy put on a strong finish to rout Ellenville 64-48, with Mickey Burkoski scoring 21 points.

In other games, Port Jervis squeezed by Liberty, 51-47, and Middletown defeated Monticello, 59-49, as Bill Williams scored 17.

A Bit of Volleyball in a Basketball Game

With Marty Kantrowitz again setting the pace, the KHS Jayvees set the pattern for last night's brilliant achievements at the Kate Walton Field House.

They whipped the tar out of the Poughkeepsie Jayvees, 84-47, as Kantrowitz racked up 21 points on nine fields and three fouls.

It was the fifth straight victory for Coach John Gilligan's cagers who grabbed an early lead to move ahead 19-12 at the quarter mark and 43-23 at halftime.

Coach Gilligan used 13 players with no appreciable dimunition in scoring power. The locals scored 41 points in the second half with second string operators.

Eleven of the 13 Kingston players crashed the scoring column, with Richie Strong hitting 12 for runnerup honors. Bob Smith and Neil Keyser tallied 9 each and Larry Johnson rimmed 7.

Two men accounted for most of Poughkeepsie's 47 points. Vic Stopski bucketed 20 and George Boyer hit 18.

Basketball Finished At Garden?

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—College basketball may be on the way out at Madison Square Garden.

Ned Irish, executive vice president of the Garden, indicated this last night during a college doubleheader that drew only 4,926, the smallest turnout since the Garden inaugurated the twin bills 20 years ago.

Georgetown beat NYU and La Salle defeated Manhattan in the doubleheader.

"The local colleges, not I, must decide," Irish explained. "But I do feel it is obvious that top teams from all over the country will not be satisfied to come here to play inferior competition before small crowds. It doesn't pay them reputation-wise or financially.

"What the colleges have to decide is whether they want to have stronger teams, as they have had in the past, or if they want to play in their own gyms with weaker teams.

"But I want to make it clear that there is no question of the Garden forcing college teams out.

"From the Garden's point of view, of course, crowds such as we have had recently simply mean the waste of a Garden date and its facilities. You certainly can't abandon a program that has been as successful as this just because you hit a couple of bad years, but in the long run you can't stand still."

Irish said the Garden attendance this year "actually is only a little below last year's."

"What makes it so disappointing," he said, "is that we have had much more attractive visitors and that we expected bigger crowds."

Racing

Miami, Fla.—Wolf Gal ($23.80) won the feature at Tropical Park.

New Orleans—Roedna ($12.60) captured the Fort Erie Purse at the Fair Grounds.

The Game's Hero

John Godwin, above, came off the bench last night to spark Kingston's brilliant victory over the Blues. He scored 19 points, 12 in the third period when the locals racked up 31.

by virtue of his recent victory over England's Randy Turpin, had been holding out for San Francisco, his adopted home town. He also had cast a speculative eye at New York's Madison Square Garden.

But Gavilan has enjoyed immense financial success in Chicago and IBC sources say he and his manager, Angel Lopez, convinced the Olson camp that holding this "natural" any place else would be sheer wastry.

Worsham's Eagle Voted Top Sports Thrill of 1953

Los Angeles, Jan. 13 (AP)—Professional golfer Lew Worsham isn't about to forget one of the most spectacular golf shots in the history of the game.

"Sure, I get a kick out of it—everytime I cash a check," says Worsham.

The shot, as all fans know, was the one Worsham let fly with a sand wedge toward the 18th green on the 72nd hole of the "World Championship" tournament at Chicago's Tam O'Shanter course last summer.

The ball plopped into the hole for the richest eagle-two in the records. It won $25,000 as the first prize for Worsham.

This all-but-a-miracle feat was voted the top "Thrill of the Year" for 1953 in the 23rd annual poll of the nation's sports writers by the Associated Press.

Worsham, competing in the Los Angeles open tournament over the weekend, was asked about the shot. He admitted it was something he'll never forget, nor will anyone permit him to forget it if he desired.

Gavilan-Olson Sign for Chicago

Chicago, Jan. 13 (AP)—Kid Gavilan, convinced Chicago is hot for him, has won his first skirmish with Bobo Olson, the man he'll meet for the midleweight championship of the world April 2.

The Cuban Kid, the current welterweight champ, persuaded Olson that the good old Yankee dollar can be had for the asking in Chicago Stadium where, it was announced yesterday, the match will be held.

Olson, middleweight titleholder

Baseball

New York—Havana and Richmond were formally admitted into the International League, replacing Baltimore and Springfield, Mass.

In less than a half dozen minutes he turned a tight, tense battle into a shambles as Kingston blasted Sam Kalloch's prides off the court with a 31-point spree and went on to crush unbeaten Poughkeepsie, 81-60, for one of Coach G. Warren Kias' most notable triumphs in 26 years of basketball coaching.

The Godwin-inspired victory was Kingston's fifth straight and is regarded as the key conquest of the 1953-54 campaign. From here on out the pressure is on the rest of the field, although Newburgh Academy kept pace last night by romping over Ellenville, 64-48, for its fourth straight.

Scores Six in Hurry

Kingston adherents expected big things from Skip Brodhead and Dick Bezemer and got them, but Godwin coming off the bench, to bust the game wide open was a thrilling, if unexpected, turn of events for the delirious Kingston rooters.

Godwin hit six baskets in that blistering third quarter, seemingly in succession, as Kingston quickly ran up a 10 point lead, 49-39, and left the powerful Blues a badly battered outfit and Coach Kalloch a pale and blanched coach on the bench.

Godwin scored 19 points and he'll never get 12 more important ones than during that sensational run.

Brodhead Scores 27

Skip Brodhead ran Poughkeepsie's crack guard, Charlie Johnson, into the boards and finished as the game's high scorer with 27 points. The kid was never more brilliant in the clutch. Dick Bezemer fouled out late in the fourth period after finishing the half with four personals. He contributed 20 points. Bill Haber and Bucky Miller were defensive demons off the backboards, hawking and harrassing the Poughkeepsie offense. This was an artistic team triumph sparked by a young man who came from out of nowhere to play the finest game of his career.

Only Gary Mendez, a 27-point average man, looked like an All-DUSO operator for Poughkeepsie. He racked up 25 points and was able to hit with consistency through four periods. The other candidate, Don Dahowski, seemed to be under terrific pressure and was limited to only three baskets and ten points. One was a sleeper against the subs in the closing seconds.

It was obvious from the start that Johnson, the superlative guard, would not contain Brodhead and Bezemer had his shooting irons working. But until Kingston made its move at 35-35 the issue was in doubt.

Bucky Miller and Brodhead opened the first appreciable margin with two quick baskets and a 14-9 lead in the first quarter.

It was touch and go to the half with tie scores at 14-14, 28-28 and 30-30 at the intermission. Poughkeepsie's defense was amazingly clean and the Blues had only two foul calls against them in the first half.

Blues Lost Lead

Phillips' layup sent the Blues ahead for the last time, 32-30, on the tapoff to start the second half. Brodhead tied it at 32-32. Godwin's basket regained the lead for Kingston, 34-32. In the next few minutes the spectators saw Godwin run wild. He ripped in 10 points, Skip Brodhead nine and Bezemer hit six. Quickly it was 49-39 and Poughkeepsie's back was broken.

The third period ended 61-47 and even though Kingston adopted a more deliberate pattern they were able to outscore the Blues, 20-14. Kalloch didn't make a substitution until late in the fourth quarter when Ronnie Bub replaced Charlie Johnson, the football wizard who had experienced a frantic night searching for a ghost named Brodhead. Coach Kias sent Jack Houghtaling, Bob Maines and Joe Markle in for the last two minutes.

Held to a 25-25 standoff at halftime, Newburgh Academy put on a strong finish to rout Ellenville 64-48, with Mickey Burkoski scoring 21 points.

In other games, Port Jervis squeezed by Liberty, 51-47, and Middletown defeated Monticello, 59-49, as Bill Williams scored 17.

With Marty Kantrowitz again setting the pace, the KHS Jayvees set the pattern for last night's brilliant achievements at the Kate Walton Field House.

They whipped the tar out of the Poughkeepsie Jayvees, 84-47, as Kantrowitz racked up 21 points on nine fields and three fouls.

It was the fifth straight victory for Coach John Gilligan's cagers who grabbed an early lead to move ahead 19-12 at the quarter mark and 43-23 at halftime.

Coach Gilligan used 13 players with no appreciable dimunition in scoring power. The locals scored 41 points in the second half with second string operators.

Eleven of the 13 Kingston players crashed the scoring column, with Richie Strong hitting 12 for runnerup honors. Bob Smith and Neil Keyser tallied 9 each and Larry Johnson rimmed 7.

Two men accounted for most of Poughkeepsie's 47 points. Vic Stopski bucketed 20 and George Boyer hit 18.

Basketball Finished At Garden?

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—College basketball may be on the way out at Madison Square Garden.

Ned Irish, executive vice president of the Garden, indicated this last night during a college doubleheader that drew only 4,926, the smallest turnout since the Garden inaugurated the twin bills 20 years ago.

Georgetown beat NYU and La Salle defeated Manhattan in the doubleheader.

"The local colleges, not I, must decide," Irish explained. "But I do feel it is obvious that top teams from all over the country will not be satisfied to come here to play inferior competition before small crowds. It doesn't pay them reputation-wise or financially.

"What the colleges have to decide is whether they want to have stronger teams, as they have had in the past, or if they want to play in their own gyms with weaker teams.

"But I want to make it clear that there is no question of the Garden forcing college teams out.

"From the Garden's point of view, of course, crowds such as we have had recently simply mean the waste of a Garden date and its facilities. You certainly can't abandon a program that has been as successful as this just because you hit a couple of bad years, but in the long run you can't stand still."

Irish said the Garden attendance this year "actually is only a little below last year's."

"What makes it so disappointing," he said, "is that we have had much more attractive visitors and that we expected bigger crowds."

Worsham's Eagle Voted Top Sports Thrill of 1953

Los Angeles, Jan. 13 (AP)—Professional golfer Lew Worsham isn't about to forget one of the most spectacular golf shots in the history of the game.

"Sure, I get a kick out of it—everytime I cash a check," says Worsham.

The shot, as all fans know, was the one Worsham let fly with a sand wedge toward the 18th green on the 72nd hole of the "World Championship" tournament at Chicago's Tam O'Shanter course last summer.

The ball plopped into the hole for the richest eagle-two in the records. It won $25,000 as the first prize for Worsham.

This all-but-a-miracle feat was voted the top "Thrill of the Year" for 1953 in the 23rd annual poll of the nation's sports writers by the Associated Press.

Worsham, competing in the Los Angeles open tournament over the weekend, was asked about the shot. He admitted it was something he'll never forget, nor will anyone permit him to forget it if he desired.

Gavilan-Olson Sign for Chicago

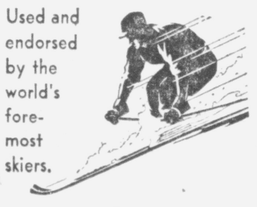

Chicago, Jan. 13 (AP)—Kid Gavilan, convinced Chicago is hot for him, has won his first skirmish with Bobo Olson, the man he'll meet for the midleweight championship of the world April 2.

The Cuban Kid, the current welterweight champ, persuaded Olson that the good old Yankee dollar can be had for the asking in Chicago Stadium where, it was announced yesterday, the match will be held.

Olson, middleweight titleholder by virtue of his recent victory over England's Randy Turpin, had been holding out for San Francisco, his adopted home town. He also had cast a speculative eye at New York's Madison Square Garden.

But Gavilan has enjoyed immense financial success in Chicago and IBC sources say he and his manager, Angel Lopez, convinced the Olson camp that holding this "natural" any place else would be sheer wastry.

Village Rest Crushes Angel Juniors, 106-57; Ferraro Hits 40

Crack Forward Threatens Mark Of Van Wagenen

Greco Bros. Edge Accord Five, 53-49

Village Rest trampled the Angel Juniors, 106-57, as Don Ferraro scored 40 points in last night's YMCA "B" League feature at the Y court.

Ferraro fell short of Huyler Van Wagenen's seasonal record of 51 set Dec. 9, 1953.

In the second game Accord didn't have enough drive in the last period and succumbed to the Greco Brothers, 53-49.

The Village's fast break ran the Juniors into the Y boards in quarter clockings of 21-26-20-39 as the Port Ewen cagers won their fourth win against two setbacks.

Hits 17 Fields

While Ferraro was rimming 17 fields and a six singletons, Jack Beaver bucketed 20 points and Dick LeFever hit with 21. Richie Nagele had 17.

Bill Fitzgerald refused to be engulfed by the Village tidal wave and finished with 28 points for the Angels. Joe Pino added 17 to the losing cause.

Rienzo Scores 31

Chris Rienzo's 31 points represented the difference between Grecos and Accord. After a 9-9 quarter tie, the winners moved ahead 26-20 at halftime and stayed in front.

Rienzo fired 13 fields and five singletons. Pat Manfro assisted with 10 and Pete Schatzel paced Accord with 20.

Ez Charles 3-1 Over Satterfield

Chicago, Jan. 13 (AP)—Ezzard Charles fights Bob Satterfield in Chicago Stadium tonight as a 3-1 favorite and the whole thing is summed up bluntly by Jake Mintz.

Charles' enthusiastic little comanager said today: "The last time I seen Satterfield, Rex Layne was standing over his prone body. Don't tell me that bum got off the floor again ..All we want to know is what's par on Satterfield's chin?"

Satterfield isn't that bad. He's probably one of the hardest punchers in the business today. Like Rocky Marciano he can knock out a guy with one shot.

However, in return, the Chicago Negro has been in inconsistent winner at best. He has 42 victories, 25 by kayoes, but he has been chilled nine times himself in 14 defeats.

The experts don't look for tonight's scheduled 10 rounder to go beyond six rounds. There is little betting despite the odds. Satterfield, at 182-pounds—about eight lighter than Charles—is expected to start flailing away at the opening bell and continue the pace with the hope of a connection.

Charles is figured to have too much experience to get hit on the target.

The fight will be televised nationally (NBC) starting at 10 p. m. EST.

Molinas Sees Grand Jury; Senator Asks Inquiry

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Jack Molinas was expected to come back to his home town today where a Bronx Grand Jury is investigating bets he made on basketball games.

Molinas is under indefinite suspension from the Fort Wayne Pistons of the National Basketball Association for gambling on his team's games. The former Columbia University captain admitted in a signed statement that he placed bets by phone to a friend in the Bronx.

Bronx District Attorney George De Luca said he planned to question Molinas today or tomorrow on all phases of his basketball career—high school, college and professional.

Under Indiana law an athlete is not specifically barred from betting on his own team. He is barred by law in New York State. The NBA standard contract stipulates that a player will be expelled for gambling on games.

In his statement in Fort Wayne Molinas said he cleared $400 on his bets. He visited the Fort Wayne detective bureau yesterday, seeking a copy of the statement, and was told he could get one from De Luca's office in the Bronx.

Action at Albany

The grand jury yesterday questioned Police Lt. William Hyland of De Luca's staff and then adjourned until Friday.

At Albany, State Senator Carlo A. Lanzilloti proposed a legislative investigation of what he called the scandalous condition of basketball.

"It is time that an investigation was made of the methods of control and discipline of players, coaches, managers, trainers and others connected with the sport to the end that remedial legislations be enacted to cure whatever evils may be found to exist," the senator declared.

In a statement on his resolution, Lanzilloti said: "I am particulary incensed over reports that local bookmakers in New York city for the past month would not take any bets on games involving Molinas' team and that the district attorney of New York city desires to question Molinas on games that he played in while a member of the Columbia University team in 1952-53."

"The Molinas incident," Lanzilloti said, "merely adds fuel to public discussion and criticism of fixed games, rigged scores and admission by professional and college basketball players of gambling on their own games.

Zaslofsky Hit With Pistons

(By The Associated Press)

Max Zaslofsky, the much traveled national professional basketball player, seems to have found a niche with the Fort Wayne Pistons.

Zaslofsky, who started off the season by being traded by the New York Knickerbockers to the Baltimore Bullets and then to the Milwaukee Hawks, was purchased by the Pistons in December.

The 27-year-old veteran of eight campaigns in the NBA, collected a total of 31 points in the Pistons' 97-66 victory over the lowly Bullets at Miami, Fla. In the only other game, the Rochester Royals broke a three-game losing streak by defeating the Milwaukee Hawks 78-73.

The ex-St. John's of Brooklyn star scored 12 points in the first seven minutes of the second quarter as the Pistons unleashed a 20-point attack. High scoring honors went to Piston center Larry Foust who had 22.

Rochester tallied 13 foul throws in the fourth quarter, with Jack McMahon, Arnie Risen and Cal Christensen scoring four apiece from the charity line.

The Royal's Bobby Wanzer and Milwaukee's Bill Tosheff tied for individual honors with 16 apiece.

Washington—Gene Smith, 129, Washington, knocked out Jimmy Ithia, 126, New York, 10.

Roberts, Ford, Ashburn Reject First Contracts

Philadelphia, Jan. 13 (AP)—Three major league hurlers who viewed the prowess of opposing hitter with a certain amount of contempt last year are eyeing 1954 contracts in the same fashion.

The Philadelphia Phillies had double-barrelled contract problems today with both 23-game winner Robin Roberts and outfielder Richie Ashburn.

Both fielded their 1954 contracts on one hop yesterday and whipped them back into the Phillies' front office before owner Bob Carpenter could say "sign on the dotted line."

"I have no intention of signing that contract," said Roberts.

"I'm asking quite a bit more," said Ashburn.

Carpenter said: "I don't anticipate trouble in adjusting the difference."

The St. Louis Cardinals on the other hand wouldn't say whether they expected trouble from their 20-game winning lefthander, Harvey Haddix, who likewise returned his unsigned contract.

"They offered me a small raise but not enough," said the 28-year-old hurler at his winter home in South Vienna, Ohio.

And Whitey Ford, who contributed 18 victories to the New York Yankees' pennant drive last year, rejected what he too called a small increase in pay, becoming the first Bronx holdout of 1954.

Village Rest Crushes Angel Juniors, 106-57; Ferraro Hits 40

Crack Forward Threatens Mark Of Van Wagenen

Greco Bros. Edge Accord Five, 53-49

Village Rest trampled the Angel Juniors, 106-57, as Don Ferraro scored 40 points in last night's YMCA "B" League feature at the Y court.

Ferraro fell short of Huyler Van Wagenen's seasonal record of 51 set Dec. 9, 1953.

In the second game Accord didn't have enough drive in the last period and succumbed to the Greco Brothers, 53-49.

The Village's fast break ran the Juniors into the Y boards in quarter clockings of 21-26-20-39 as the Port Ewen cagers won their fourth win against two setbacks.

Hits 17 Fields

While Ferraro was rimming 17 fields and a six singletons, Jack Beaver bucketed 20 points and Dick LeFever hit with 21. Richie Nagele had 17.

Bill Fitzgerald refused to be engulfed by the Village tidal wave and finished with 28 points for the Angels. Joe Pino added 17 to the losing cause.

Rienzo Scores 31

Chris Rienzo's 31 points represented the difference between Grecos and Accord. After a 9-9 quarter tie, the winners moved ahead 26-20 at halftime and stayed in front.

Rienzo fired 13 fields and five singletons. Pat Manfro assisted with 10 and Pete Schatzel paced Accord with 20.

In tonight's action, the 50 Club meets Rapp's Express at 7:15 and J&E Milk Bar goes against Back's Cedaraps at 8:15.

Ez Charles 3-1 Over Satterfield

Chicago, Jan. 13 (AP)—Ezzard Charles fights Bob Satterfield in Chicago Stadium tonight as a 3-1 favorite and the whole thing is summed up bluntly by Jake Mintz.

Charles' enthusiastic little comanager said today: "The last time I seen Satterfield, Rex Layne was standing over his prone body. Don't tell me that bum got off the floor again ..All we want to know is what's par on Satterfield's chin?"

Satterfield isn't that bad. He's probably one of the hardest punchers in the business today. Like Rocky Marciano he can knock out a guy with one shot.

However, in return, the Chicago Negro has been in inconsistent winner at best. He has 42 victories, 25 by kayoes, but he has been chilled nine times himself in 14 defeats.

The experts don't look for tonight's scheduled 10 rounder to go beyond six rounds. There is little betting despite the odds. Satterfield, at 182-pounds—about eight lighter than Charles—is expected to start flailing away at the opening bell and continue the pace with the hope of a connection.

Charles is figured to have too much experience to get hit on the target.

The fight will be televised nationally (NBC) starting at 10 p. m. EST.

Molinas Sees Grand Jury; Senator Asks Inquiry

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Jack Molinas was expected to come back to his home town today where a Bronx Grand Jury is investigating bets he made on basketball games.

Molinas is under indefinite suspension from the Fort Wayne Pistons of the National Basketball Association for gambling on his team's games. The former Columbia University captain admitted in a signed statement that he placed bets by phone to a friend in the Bronx.

Bronx District Attorney George De Luca said he planned to question Molinas today or tomorrow on all phases of his basketball career—high school, college and professional.

Under Indiana law an athlete is not specifically barred from betting on his own team. He is barred by law in New York State. The NBA standard contract stipulates that a player will be expelled for gambling on games.

In his statement in Fort Wayne Molinas said he cleared $400 on his bets. He visited the Fort Wayne detective bureau yesterday, seeking a copy of the statement, and was told he could get one from De Luca's office in the Bronx.

Action at Albany

The player, in his first year as a pro, has denied betting on any games during his college career.

The grand jury yesterday questioned Police Lt. William Hyland of De Luca's staff and then adjourned until Friday.

At Albany, State Senator Carlo A. Lanzilloti proposed a legislative investigation of what he called the scandalous condition of basketball.

"It is time that an investigation was made of the methods of control and discipline of players, coaches, managers, trainers and others connected with the sport to the end that remedial legislations be enacted to cure whatever evils may be found to exist," the senator declared.

In a statement on his resolution, Lanzilloti said: "I am particulary incensed over reports that local bookmakers in New York city for the past month would not take any bets on games involving Molinas' team and that the district attorney of New York city desires to question Molinas on games that he played in while a member of the Columbia University team in 1952-53."

"The Molinas incident," Lanzilloti said, "merely adds fuel to public discussion and criticism of fixed games, rigged scores and admission by professional and college basketball players of gambling on their own games.

Even With Gola Garden Twinbill Draws Only 4,296

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—College basketball attendance at Madison Square Garden, dwindling steadily for several years, hit an all-time low last night.

A crowd announced as 4,296 rattled around in the big arena, the smallest turnout for a regulary-scheduled night doubleheader since Ned Irish started there back in 1934. By coincidence, one of the teams that played that first game, New York University, also was in action last night. The Violets bowed to Georgetown 75-67 in the second game after All-America Tom Gola had guided La Salle's young team to a 69-61 triumph over Manhattan.

Gola, playing here for the 14th time in three years, apparently was the magnet for many of those in the crowd, for it grew smaller during the raggedly-played second affair. He only scored 12 points—half his season average, but his passing, rebounding, defense play and coaching enabled his sophomore teammates to win.

Second-ranked Duquesne was idle, but Holy Cross, the East's other ranking power, had to go all out to turn back Boston College, the Crusaders traditional rival, 83-57. That sounds like a rout, but it was only 51-49

Ritchie Search Ends When Man Gives Himself Up

Kitchener, Ont., Jan. 13 (AP)—The five-day hunt for Donald Ritchie, fugitive key witness in the Reuther shooting case, ended early today in nearby Preston. Police said Ritchie walked quietly up to a reporter in a downtown restaurant and disclosed his identity.

Two police from Detroit, where Ritchie eluded a police guard last Friday, were on their way to Preston to pick up both Ritchie and his common-law wife, Betty White.

The woman had been arrested last night in Preston, about 150 miles northeast of Detroit. She told police Ritchie had planned to surrender after making contact with his attorney.

Ritchie, a 33-year-old Canadian, had implicated himself and four others in the attempted assassination in 1948 of Walter P. Reuther, now CIO president. Police described Ritchie as a "key witness" in the solution of the case. Only one of the four others is still at large.

Held on U. S. Warrant

Ritchie was held here on a U. S. warrant charging him with attempted murder in the Reuther shooting. Wayne county (Detroit) Prosecutor Gerald O'Brien issued the warrant after Ritchie's flight last week.

Constable John Ford of the Ontario provincial police here gave this account of how the hunt for Ritchie ended:

Dennis Harvey, a reporter for the Hamilton Spectator, had stopped for an early morning snack at a restaurant on King's street, the main thoroughfare of Preston, about nine miles southeast of Kitchener.

A man walked up to Harvey and announced calmly: "I'm Donald Ritchie."

Taken by surprise, Harvey asked the man to prove his identity. He reached into his pocket and took out papers proving he was the man sought by both Canadian and U. S. police.

Jet Demolishes Houses, 6 Die

Long Beach, Calif., Jan. 13 (AP)—Shrouded in rain clouds, an air force jet fighter plane rocketed into a Signal hill residential district late yesterday, demolished two homes and exploded, set fire to a third home and damaged a fourth. Six persons died in the ghastly inferno and four were injured, two so seriously they may not recover.

In addition an elderly man, horrified at what he saw, suffered a heart attack and died.

The hurtling plane ripped out telephone lines and broke gas mains that erupted into geysers of flame as blazing jet fuel cascaded over what an instant before had been a quiet neighborhood in the oil producing area, which is completely surrounded by the City of Long Beach.

The pilot, Maj. Robert A. Blair of Omaha, Neb., died in the pyre formed by his twisted and smouldering jet. A boy perished in the street where he was playing.

Occupants of nearby homes ran panic-stricken into the street to see flames racing into the clouds from the burning plane and the houses.

The ill-fated F-86 Sabret jet was one of two returning to the Long Beach Municipal Airport from Williams Air Force Base, Ariz., when they were enveloped in dense clouds that brought heavy rains to Los Angeles metropolitan area. Both jets raced out to sea, then swept in under the clouds. One made it to the airport, but Maj. Blair's craft sheared off the top of a fir tree in front of a home for convalescents. This house was not damaged, but next door the home of Mrs. Shirley Roberts was demolished and she and her infant son, Douglas, were killed.

Plane Is Chartered

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Newlyweds Porfirio Rubirosa and Barbara Hutton are scheduled to fly to Palm Beach today in the privacy of a chartered 88-passenger Constellation. An Eastern Airlines spokesman said yesterday that the former Dominican diplomat and his heiress wife hired the plane at a cost of $4,500. The spokesman said the party will include Rubirosa's secretary and a domestic. The plane will carry a regular crew of six—pilot, co-pilot, flight engineer, a steward and two stewardesses.

Pressure Cooker Speeds Preparation of Basic Sauces

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

If you have the three basic stocks for fine cooking ready in jars in your refrigerator or deep freeze, you have the beginnings of gourmet cooking.

Donald Deskey, noted American industrial designer as well as famous amateur cook, explained how he makes these wonderful sauces, that usually take many hours, in his pressure cooker in a few minutes.

"Then, no matter what type of dish we want to cook for dinner, half the work has been done in advance quickly," Deskey explained at a luncheon. His gourmet-sauce-making technique is of his own design, so also are the interior of Radio City Music Hall, a 6-sided moth ball, the first massed-produced tubular steel furniture and the first candy-vending machine.

Those are but a few things this son of Blue Earth, Minnesota, has to his credit. Homemakers, however, will be particularly interested in his jiffy basic sauce recipes.

Brown (Beef) Stock

Bone marrow, cut in small pieces, or 2 tablespoons fat, 2 to 3 pounds lean beef, in cubes, soup bone, cracked, ½ cup onion, diced, ¼ cup carrots, diced, 1 small bay leaf, ¼ cup celery with leaves, chopped, 1½ tablespoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon parsley, chopped, 8 cups water.

Render marrow in bottom of cooker. Brown meat slowly in melted marrow. Add onion, carrots, bay leaf, salt, pepper, celery, parsley, bone, water. Place cover on cooker. Allow steam to flow from vent pipe and cook for 30 minutes with stem at COOK position. A low stem to return to DOWN position. Cook, skim, strain and store in refrigerator in covered container.

Quick White Soup Stock

Three to 4 pounds chicken or veal, cut in parts, 2 quarts water, ¼ cup celery diced, 1 carrot, sliced, 1 onion, sliced, 2 sprigs parsley, minced, 2 cloves garlic, minced, 1 bay leaf, 8 whole black peppers, 2 tablespoons salt.

Place all ingredients in cooker. Place cover on cooker. Allow steam to flow from vent pipe. Place indicator weight on vent pipe and cook 30 minutes with stem at COOK position. Let indicator return to DOWN position. Cook, skim, strain and store in refrigerator in covered container.

Roxbury Man Chosen

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi swore in three new members to the state hotel minimum wage board yesterday. The new members bring the board to its full nine-member strength, replacing two who have died and one who moved out of the state. The new members include former White Plains City Court Judge Basil Filardi, replacing the late Isadore L. Benjamin, public member; James Marley, secretary-treasurer of the hotel and club employes union, Local 6, replacing the late Miss Gertrude Lane as labor representative, and Thomas Porter, proprietor of the Roxbury Hotel, Roxbury, replacing Morgan J. Smith, formerly of Rochester, as a management member.

To enhance the flavor of hash, try adding a little poultry seasoning.

Mom, Son Stage School Sitdown

Mrs. Marie Dawson and her son, Frank (rear left), brought their own chairs to school as they staged a sitdown strike in a school at Half Day, Ill. The boy was expelled from school for extended absence. His mother claimed the boy was sick but the teacher said the absences were because he went hunting. (NEA Telephoto)

Bill Would Purge Harness Racing by Setting Up Czar

Albany, Jan. 13 (AP) — Gov. Dewey today called upon the Legislature to create the position of harness racing "czar" armed with dictatorial authority over every phase of the sulky sport.

The drastic legislation, stemming from the harness racing scandals, was introduced in the Legislature as an administration measure and was certain of passage.

It provides for a base salary of $16,500 a year for the "czar" who would be known as the state harness racing commissioner.

The governor acted in the wake of a Democratic attack on Republican leaders in the legislative war over the harness racing mess.

The bill abolishing the present unsalaried three-member harness racing commission and creates the post of harness racing commissioner.

The term for the commissioner is six years, the same as that for members of the present commission.

Monaghan Chosen

Dewey already has chosen George P. Monaghan, former New York city police commissioner, as the harness racing "czar."

Monaghan also is a member of the Moreland Act Commission investigating the sport.

At the present time, officers and employes of the commission are prohibited from having a financial interest in harness races.

The Dewey bill expands the prohibition to include all "operations of any licensee of the commission."

Dewey's move came in the wake of a blistering assault by Senator Joseph Zaretzki of Manhattan on prominent Republicans and the Democratic senator's tieing in two holders of Vernon Downs stock with Rep. Dean P. Taylor, GOP state chairman.

On the Senate floor yesterday, Zaretzki took on J. Russell Sprague, Nassau county Republican leader, and William F. Bleakley, Westchester county GOP leader.

Zaretzki asserted that Sprague "muscled in in true gangland fashion on the payoff at Yonkers" Raceway.

Zaretzki said Bleakley, a lawyer, first represented the Empire City Racing Assn. In the sale of the Yonkers track property to a syndicate that later set up Yonkers Raceway and that he subsequently turned up as counsel to the new owners.

The senator said Yonkers Raceway, the giant of the sport in America, was born of a battle between "two Republican giants"—Sprague and Bleakley.

Turning to Vernon Downs, a track in Central New York established last year, Zaretzki asked:

"Is there anyone in this room naive enough to believe that the license was obtained without any payoff?

The senator said the Harry Pitt, an Albany insurance man, and Louis Gross, president of the Union National Bank of Troy, each held 10,000 shares of Vernon Downs stock.

Identifies Man

Zaretzki identified Pitt as a brother of a former vice chairman of the Rensselaer County Republican Committee — Taylor's home base—and Gross as the president of a Troy bank of which Taylor is a director.

Then Zaretzki asked:

"Is all this sheer coincidence—or is it camouflage?"

The reaction was not long in coming. Taylor in a prepared statement denied that he ever had owned any stock or "any interest whatsoever, direct or indirect, in any harness racing track licensed by the state of New York or by any other state in the union."

Taylor said: "I challenge Senator Zaretzki to make a statement that I have an interest in any racetrack licensed by the state of New York or any other state away from the immunity of the Senate floor, and if he does so, I will sue him for libel and slander."

of strength between the people and "the powerful rulers."

Free world security—The Eisenhower administration has made a "basic decision" to build its security upon "massive retaliatory power" so that Russia may be deterred from attack. Dulles linked the announced withdrawal of two divisions from Korea to this decision, saying it will provide more security at less cost.

Allied Power

Allied strength—Until the six-nation European Defense Community is set up, the North Atlantic Alliance "and indeed future peace, are in jeopardy." Dulles, who calls EDC as the only hope for easing French-German tensions, said Communist agents regard those tensions as a fuse for setting off "international arson."

Bipartisanship in foreign policy—Dulles made a bid for Democratic support by saying that many policies of the Truman administration "were good." He mentioned Greek-Turkish aid, European economic aid, the breaking of the Russian blockade of Berlin, the fight against communism in Korea and the military build-up in Europe. But he said these were moves born of emergency which do not necessarily make "good permanent policies."

Hails Decision

It seemed to be in this sense that Dulles hailed the decision by the National Security Council, headed by President Eisenhower, to build a strategy upon the power of retaliation.

That means, Dulles said, that the United States no longer must respond to every maneuver of the Soviets but that it has a governing direction for choices it will make in its own major interest.

Dulles said the administration had not found a "magic formula" for preventing any Communist victory.

The Big Four sessions are scheduled to open Jan. 25.

The big issues are German reunification and a peace treaty for Austria.

Ritchie Search Ends When Man Gives Himself Up

Kitchener, Ont., Jan. 13 (AP)—The five-day hunt for Donald Ritchie, fugitive key witness in the Reuther shooting case, ended early today in nearby Preston. Police said Ritchie walked quietly up to a reporter in a downtown restaurant and disclosed his identity.

Two police from Detroit, where Ritchie eluded a police guard last Friday, were on their way to Preston to pick up both Ritchie and his common-law wife, Betty White.

The woman had been arrested last night in Preston, about 150 miles northeast of Detroit. She told police Ritchie had planned to surrender after making contact with his attorney.

Ritchie, a 33-year-old Canadian, had implicated himself and four others in the attempted assassination in 1948 of Walter P. Reuther, now CIO president. Police described Ritchie as a "key witness" in the solution of the case. Only one of the four others is still at large.

Held on U. S. Warrant

Ritchie was held here on a U. S. warrant charging him with attempted murder in the Reuther shooting. Wayne county (Detroit) Prosecutor Gerald O'Brien issued the warrant after Ritchie's flight last week.

Constable John Ford of the Ontario provincial police here gave this account of how the hunt for Ritchie ended:

Dennis Harvey, a reporter for the Hamilton Spectator, had stopped for an early morning snack at a restaurant on King's street, the main thoroughfare of Preston, about nine miles southeast of Kitchener.

A man walked up to Harvey and announced calmly: "I'm Donald Ritchie."

Taken by surprise, Harvey asked the man to prove his identity. He reached into his pocket and took out papers proving he was the man sought by both Canadian and U. S. police.

Jet Demolishes Houses, 6 Die

Long Beach, Calif., Jan. 13 (AP)—Shrouded in rain clouds, an air force jet fighter plane rocketed into a Signal hill residential district late yesterday, demolished two homes and exploded, set fire to a third home and damaged a fourth. Six persons died in the ghastly inferno and four were injured, two so seriously they may not recover.

In addition an elderly man, horrified at what he saw, suffered a heart attack and died.

The hurtling plane ripped out telephone lines and broke gas mains that erupted into geysers of flame as blazing jet fuel cascaded over what an instant before had been a quiet neighborhood in the oil producing area, which is completely surrounded by the City of Long Beach.

The pilot, Maj. Robert A. Blair of Omaha, Neb., died in the pyre formed by his twisted and smouldering jet. A boy perished in the street where he was playing.

Occupants of nearby homes ran panic-stricken into the street to see flames racing into the clouds from the burning plane and the houses.

The ill-fated F-86 Sabret jet was one of two returning to the Long Beach Municipal Airport from Williams Air Force Base, Ariz., when they were enveloped in dense clouds that brought heavy rains to Los Angeles metropolitan area. Both jets raced out to sea, then swept in under the clouds. One made it to the airport, but Maj. Blair's craft sheared off the top of a fir tree in front of a home for convalescents. This house was not damaged, but next door the home of Mrs. Shirley Roberts was demolished and she and her infant son, Douglas, were killed.

Plane Is Chartered

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Newlyweds Porfirio Rubirosa and Barbara Hutton are scheduled to fly to Palm Beach today in the privacy of a chartered 88-passenger Constellation. An Eastern Airlines spokesman said yesterday that the former Dominican diplomat and his heiress wife hired the plane at a cost of $4,500. The spokesman said the party will include Rubirosa's secretary and a domestic. The plane will carry a regular crew of six—pilot, co-pilot, flight engineer, a steward and two stewardesses.

Pressure Cooker Speeds Preparation of Basic Sauces

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

If you have the three basic stocks for fine cooking ready in jars in your refrigerator or deep freeze, you have the beginnings of gourmet cooking.

Donald Deskey, noted American industrial designer as well as famous amateur cook, explained how he makes these wonderful sauces, that usually take many hours, in his pressure cooker in a few minutes.

"Then, no matter what type of dish we want to cook for dinner, half the work has been done in advance quickly," Deskey explained at a luncheon. His gourmet-sauce-making technique is of his own design, so also are the interior of Radio City Music Hall, a 6-sided moth ball, the first massed-produced tubular steel furniture and the first candy-vending machine.

Those are but a few things this son of Blue Earth, Minnesota, has to his credit. Homemakers, however, will be particularly interested in his jiffy basic sauce recipes.

Bills in Legislature

Albany, Jan. 13 (AP)—A $100,000 probe of leftists and "extreme rightwingers "endangering our domestic unity" has been asked in the Legislature.

Two Queens Republicans, Sen. Seymour Halpern and Assemblyman Angelo Graci, introduced a resolution yesterday calling for the investigation of "Communists, Neo-Fascists and organizations and groups listed as subversive by the attorney general."

A committee of three senators and four assemblymen would try to determine, the legislators said, how funds collected from the public "in the name of righteous-sounding causes" get to the "coffers of organizations and groups of questionable nature."

The reoslution would appropriate $100,000 for the committee, which would have the power to hold hearings and subpoena witnesses. The group would report by April 1, 1955.

Laws Called Inadequate

The two legislators said in a statement that state laws on fund-raising drives by organizations deemed subversive were "obviously inadequate." They recommended careful study of "additional safeguards to protect the public."

Graci and Sen. Milton Koerner, Neponsit Republican, introduced a measure that would require New York City Council approval of appointments to the Board of Education and the Board of Higher Education.

The mayor now makes the appointments "with a free hand, and is not required to consult any other person or branch of government concerning the qualifications or fitness of those persons so appointed," Graci and Koerner said in a statement.

Hatfield Offers Bill

Financial help for state and local employes and teachers who retired before last Jan. 1 on pensions of $1,000 or less was proposed by Senator Ernest I. Hatfield, Poughkeepsie Republican. His bill would appropriate 4 million dollars to enlarge the pensions and allowances.

Overlapping of town and village governments would be studied by a 10-man temporary commission proposed by Sen. Frank S. McCullough, Rye Republican.

Under the measure, four appointees of the governor, three senators and three assemblymen would review fiscal and tax relations of villages and towns to prevent "unnecessary duplication of government." An appropriation of $25,000 was asked.

Television aerials came in for attention in a bill introduced by Assemblyman Bernard Austin, Brooklyn Democrat. The bill provides that whether the landlord liked it or not, a tenant could have an antenna installed on the roof or by a window—upon payment of $2 a month for as long as it remained.

A measure offered by Assemblyman William J. Reid, Fort Edward Republican, would fix a 40-hour week and a day of eight consecutive hours for guards at state prisons and correctional institutions. The schedule could be waived when public safety required it, the bill provides.

Bill on Ice Boxes

Abandoned ice boxes, death traps for dozens of children at play, were the subject of a bill by Sen. Nathaniel T. Helman, New York city Democrat. He would make it a misdemeanor to leave one outside without first removing its doors.

Other measures would:

Provide for one additional county judge in Westchester county. With the senior county judge vested with administrative powers (Sen. Williamson—R, Westchester).

Allow anyone to complain to the State Commission Against Discrimination about bias in employment practices, instead of only the one claiming to be aggrieved (Sen. Sorin—D, Brooklyn).

For alcoholic beverage sale purposes, define restaurant to mean serving of food instead of meals (Assemblyman Calli—R, Oneida).

derogatory information on their record.

7. Said he advocated stripping convicted Communist conspirators of U. S. citizenship because he believes a conspirator is just as guilty as anyone who actually attempts to overthrow the government by force.

Has No Significance

8. Told the newsmen no significance should be read into the fact that he did not renew his call this year, in the State of the Union Message, for revision of the McCarran - Walter Immigration law. Eisenhower noted that he said in the message he would deal with some other matters in subsequent documents. He added that recommendations dealing with the immigration law have not yet been submitted to him by the government departments concerned.

9. Said there has been a lot of apprehension about the administration program to channel defense contracts into unemployment areas. Eisenhower said there particularly has been exaggeration along the line that entire contracts would go to such areas, rather than only 20 to 30 per cent of the total of individual contracts.

10. Smilingly confided that he believes women have the brains and the ability to occupy the presidency, but said he doubts whether they would like the job. That was a comment on former President Truman's remark that a woman might be president some day.

11. Repeated that he believes Alaska is not ready for statehood.

Cole Starts 28th Year as Executive Of Musical Union

At the annual meeting at the union headquarters on Albany avenue, John A. Cole was elected to start his 28th year as an executive of Local 215, American Federation of Musicians.

Cole, a local realtor, was unanimously relected to his eighth term as president of the local, which he served previously as secretary for 20 years.

In his acceptance speech, President Cole thanked the various committees and officers for their cooperation during his tenure of office, and appealed for the same support in the ensuing year.

The panel of officers reelected to serve with Cole consists of, Salvatore Castiglione, vice-president; William Steuding, treasurer and Michael Marchuk, secretary.

Trustees elected were Peter Ferraro, chairman; John Napoleon and Donald Pierson.

This year's executive committee is made up of Howard Ives, Joseph Vigna, John Valentine, Frank Tiano and Macks Milton.

To Assist President

Clementine Nessel succeeds herself as assistant to the president, having been honored with appointment to that post.

In lauding the membership for its cooperation, President Cole stressed that it was the major factor in making decisions satisfactory to management and labor.

Reports on Projects

Cole thanked Peter Ferraro for his "spendid job" in administering the performance trust fund as chairman. Through the fund enjoyment and entertainment was furnished in hospitals and aided community projects in Ulster, Greene, Orange, Delaware and Sullivan counties, the territory within the jurisdiction of Local 215.

"Thousands of dollars were spent through the fund," President Cole said on free dances, concerts and musical programs. He added that many more thousands will be spent in the ensuing year.

In concluding, President Cole expressed his gratitude for the "kindness and understanding of our problems as shown by officials and citizens of our community."

Ordinances Drawn

zation. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Local laws, designated as 1, 2 and 3 of 1954 and providing for raising the salaries of the city clerk, assessor, and city treasurer from the $4,360 provided for in the budget, to $5,000, were given first reading and on motion of Alderman Abram D. Relyea, the council recessed until Wednesday, Jan. 20 for the second and third reading of the law and possible voting on it.

Must Remove Locks

The ordinance on refrigerators, freezing units, chests or any other container of similar kind and size, equipped with tight fitting door or doors similar to refrigerators, must not be left outside of buildings in places accessible to children, unless the locking devices have been removed.

The one on cisterns, wells and other excavations "containing water or other liquid," must not be constructed or left unprotected on a premises where they would be accessible to children. Such openings must be protected by fences or covers.

Penalties Provided

Penalties for violations of both ordinances upon first conviction are not to exceed $50, and "upon a conviction subject to a first conviction" violators face a fine as high as $500 or by imprisonment of not more than a year or both.

Some of the Democratic aldermen said they would like to see abandoned or condemned buildings included, and Cole referred particularly to the former Barmann building on South Clinton avenue, which has been left partly torn down.

Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly said, however, that certain technicalities and legal aspects were involved in dealing with such an ordinance on buildings and the proposal was referred to the corporation counsel.

Inspection Office Planned

Kelly also informed Alderman Cole in reference to his building permit proposal that it is already planned to establish a building inspection office, possibly before next July 1, when certain phases of the multiple dwelling law become effective, and upon suggestion of Alderman Radel Kelly referred the Cole proposal to the corporation counsel to see what may be done if it does not conflict with provisions of the state's Mitchell bill on multiple dwellings.

Ryan said when the proposal was discussed in the finance committee it was felt that it would not be an infringement on other plans but would set the ground work prior to next July 1. Storms expressed himself as highly in favor of the proposal also.

Speeding Is Condemned

Alderman Robert Cullum, 12th ward, recalling a previous resolution on speeding on Lucas avenue and Main street, suggested that something be done about it. Other aldermen said something should be done about speeding everywhere in the city, and Cole suggested that the council as a whole move for action.

Alderman-at-Large Kelly agreed that "we have hot-rodders in the city," and all speeding should be stopped, but he said the police department also has its personnel problem at this time, and often enough men are not available to cover the city as it should be.

Other resolutions offered and referred to proper departments for action were:

Arthur J. Smith, eighth ward: That signs and traffic regulations be set up to designate Augusta street as a play area, that the city take steps to install lighting and improvements on Wells street to make it safe for pedestrians and vehicles, that a committee be appointed to investigate the possibility of creating a playground in the eight ward, and that steps be taken to stop the Callanan Road Improvement Co., Inc., from "excessive blasting operations", that curbing repairs and others be made on Rogers street and the sewer be improved to end flooding from storm waters.

Alderman-at-Large Kelly appointed Alderman Harry Brandt and James K. Ryan a committee to investigate Ryan's resolution asking that the council sessions be opened by prayer.

A resolution by Alderman Cole asked that a steel fence be erected on Abeel street near the railroad bridge to correct a dangerous condition.

Fifth Ward Alderman Samuel J. Perry, commenting on the refrigerator ordinance, said he was highly in favor of it because only about two months ago some youngsters were playing near a refrigerator and were locked in for a short time. The police were called at the time, he said.

Cites Two Hazards

Alderman Harry Brandt, seventh ward asked that a hole on Dock street near the guard fence along the creek be filled in, and Radel suggested that a request for immediate action be added, because a previous dangerous condition on that street cost the city $30,000 through a lawsuit.

Brandt also asked that a condition which causes the flowing of water on Spruce street be remedied and that Ravine street between Spring and German streets be plowed and sanded after snowstorms.

A Radel resolution asked that the mayor be requested to make a statement of disbursements of each city department as of Dec. 1 each year . . . to be compared with items in the budget for the year, and copies be forwarded to members of the council prior to public hearing and that copies also be available to interested persons.

Radel also asked for a street light midway on Florence street extension between Stephan street and the dead end.

Cullum; that a sign requesting speed to be reduced be placed on the Washington avenue viaduct for traffic headed in a westerly direction. At present, he said, trucks travel at excessive speed down the incline.

Norton; that a loading zone be established in front of the business place of Abraham Cohen, 15 Hasbrouck avenue.

Council Approves

ficit was $78,800. He asked why the tax rate went up by $3.86 when assessed valuation gained $129,000 over 1953. He noted that the cost of city government was $207,000 more, and felt that even with salary increases the budget could be cut in some way.

In Time for Study

Alderman Benjamin Storms (R) Second ward, said he wanted "to set the record straight" on the budget. He called attention to the fact that the budget, prepared by former Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, was ready in time for study by and suggestions from the aldermen, and that it was given proper public hearing.

"We of the finance committee," he said, "studied the budget item by item, and he said, they called others in for advice and explanation when they considered it necessary.

"Talking in generalities is one thing," he held, "and talking facts is another." Here he called attention to one alderman (Ryan) who said that the bonus to city employes is not enough, but, he noted, no one came through with a plan showing how to do better. This, he held, was a "complex question."

Provision Questioned

Ryan had questioned an increased provision for the city buildings fund, a special fund of $3,500 for the BPW, and $1,000 to the education department for use of bleechers.

Storms said the funds as presented were all a matter of bookkeeping and, noting that all the aldermen had time "to think it over," he proposed, "if anyone has a concrete plan tonight, we'll sit down and listen."

Cole said he felt the "offer is too late," and Storms recalled the public hearing and said the finance committee held not one, but four meetings on the budget. "If anyone had a concrete plan," he said, "they could have presented it and we would have listened."

Alderman Storms said he did not want to give the impression that the finance committee did not work harmoniously in considering the budget—"we gave it all we had," and worked together, he said.

Tells of Conferences

Alderman Robert Cullum, 12th ward (R) another member of the committee told of conferences with heads of various city departments, and speaking of the $1,000 item earmarked to the education board for bleachers, he said the aldermen had until July to work on that and he felt something could be done about it.

Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, at one point, reminded the aldermen in their discussion on the budget that nobody had brought out "how much we would have to cut the budget to bring it down $1," and to this Storms replied about $33,000. Alderman Abram D. Relyea reminded the aldermen that the affairs of the city of Kingston represent the conduct of a big business and therefore is subject to such trends as are in big business today.

Two Speak From Floor

Kelly offered the privilege of the floor to Mrs. Nellie V. Osterhoudt, 133 St. James street and Mrs. Adele Bregman of 126 Broadway.

Mrs. Osterhoudt said she thought taxes were "much too high," while "we on the verge of a depression." She cited the raising of city salaries at this time, and stressed "I think it's ridiculous to pay the taxes we are paying at this time. I think something should be done about it."

Mrs. Bregman, in general, repeated her comment of the meeting a week ago. She was sure the budget could be revised "so that we don't have to pay that much."

Cold Wave Freezes Vessels in River

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Various vessels were reported icebound today in the upper Hudson river as a cold wave held its grip on the east.

The coast guard ordered its icebreaker West Wind to proceed from the Brooklyn Navy Yard to clear channel ice and to assist icebound vessels in the Albany area.

A survey by the coast guard reported these conditions at 11 a. m. (EST):

Albany—River traffic slow, but moving.

Frozen at Saugerties

Saugerties—Ice two to six inches thick, bank to bank; not navigable to low powered vessels.

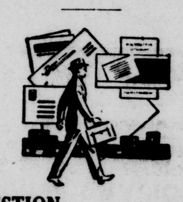

Esopus meadows—Solid and windblown ice bank to bank; six to ten inches thick; no open water, navigable to high powered vessels only.

Bills in Legislature

Albany, Jan. 13 (AP)—A $100,000 probe of leftists and "extreme rightwingers "endangering our domestic unity" has been asked in the Legislature.

Two Queens Republicans, Sen. Seymour Halpern and Assemblyman Angelo Graci, introduced a resolution yesterday calling for the investigation of "Communists, Neo-Fascists and organizations and groups listed as subversive by the attorney general."

A committee of three senators and four assemblymen would try to determine, the legislators said, how funds collected from the public "in the name of righteous-sounding causes" get to the "coffers of organizations and groups of questionable nature."

The reoslution would appropriate $100,000 for the committee, which would have the power to hold hearings and subpoena witnesses. The group would report by April 1, 1955.

Laws Called Inadequate

The two legislators said in a statement that state laws on fund-raising drives by organizations deemed subversive were "obviously inadequate." They recommended careful study of "additional safeguards to protect the public."

Graci and Sen. Milton Koerner, Neponsit Republican, introduced a measure that would require New York City Council approval of appointments to the Board of Education and the Board of Higher Education.

The mayor now makes the appointments "with a free hand, and is not required to consult any other person or branch of government concerning the qualifications or fitness of those persons so appointed," Graci and Koerner said in a statement.

Hatfield Offers Bill

Financial help for state and local employes and teachers who retired before last Jan. 1 on pensions of $1,000 or less was proposed by Senator Ernest I. Hatfield, Poughkeepsie Republican. His bill would appropriate 4 million dollars to enlarge the pensions and allowances.

Overlapping of town and village governments would be studied by a 10-man temporary commission proposed by Sen. Frank S. McCullough, Rye Republican.

Under the measure, four appointees of the governor, three senators and three assemblymen would review fiscal and tax relations of villages and towns to prevent "unnecessary duplication of government." An appropriation of $25,000 was asked.

Television aerials came in for attention in a bill introduced by Assemblyman Bernard Austin, Brooklyn Democrat. The bill provides that whether the landlord liked it or not, a tenant could have an antenna installed on the roof or by a window—upon payment of $2 a month for as long as it remained.

A measure offered by Assemblyman William J. Reid, Fort Edward Republican, would fix a 40-hour week and a day of eight consecutive hours for guards at state prisons and correctional institutions. The schedule could be waived when public safety required it, the bill provides.

Bill on Ice Boxes

Abandoned ice boxes, death traps for dozens of children at play, were the subject of a bill by Sen. Nathaniel T. Helman, New York city Democrat. He would make it a misdemeanor to leave one outside without first removing its doors.

Other measures would:

Provide for one additional county judge in Westchester county. With the senior county judge vested with administrative powers (Sen. Williamson—R, Westchester).

Allow anyone to complain to the State Commission Against Discrimination about bias in employment practices, instead of only the one claiming to be aggrieved (Sen. Sorin—D, Brooklyn).

For alcoholic beverage sale purposes, define restaurant to mean serving of food instead of meals (Assemblyman Calli—R, Oneida).

Prohibit unreasonable search, seizure and interception of telephone and telegraph communications and the use of such evidence of unlawfully obtained (Assemblyman Baker—D, Brooklyn).

Council Approves

Speeding Is Condemned

Alderman Robert Cullum, 12th ward, recalling a previous resolution on speeding on Lucas avenue and Main street, suggested that something be done about it. Other aldermen said something should be done about speeding everywhere in the city, and Cole suggested that the council as a whole move for action.

Alderman-at-Large Kelly agreed that "we have hot-rodders in the city," and all speeding should be stopped, but he said the police department also has its personnel problem at this time, and often enough men are not available to cover the city as it should be.

Other resolutions offered and referred to proper departments for action were:

Arthur J. Smith, eighth ward: That signs and traffic regulations be set up to designate Augusta street as a play area, that the city take steps to install lighting and improvements on Wells street to make it safe for pedestrians and vehicles, that a committee be appointed to investigate the possibility of creating a playground in the eight ward, and that steps be taken to stop the Callanan Road Improvement Co., Inc., from "excessive blasting operations", that curbing repairs and others be made on Rogers street and the sewer be improved to end flooding from storm waters.

Alderman-at-Large Kelly appointed Alderman Harry Brandt and James K. Ryan a committee to investigate Ryan's resolution asking that the council sessions be opened by prayer.

A resolution by Alderman Cole asked that a steel fence be erected on Abeel street near the railroad bridge to correct a dangerous condition.

Fifth Ward Alderman Samuel J. Perry, commenting on the refrigerator ordinance, said he was highly in favor of it because only about two months ago some youngsters were playing near a refrigerator and were locked in for a short time. The police were called at the time, he said.

Cites Two Hazards

Alderman Harry Brandt, seventh ward asked that a hole on Dock street near the guard fence along the creek be filled in, and Radel suggested that a request for immediate action be added, because a previous dangerous condition on that street cost the city $30,000 through a lawsuit.

Brandt also asked that a condition which causes the flowing of water on Spruce street be remedied and that Ravine street between Spring and German streets be plowed and sanded after snowstorms.

A Radel resolution asked that the mayor be requested to make a statement of disbursements of each city department as of Dec. 1 each year . . . to be compared with items in the budget for the year, and copies be forwarded to members of the council prior to public hearing and that copies also be available to interested persons.

Radel also asked for a street light midway on Florence street extension between Stephan street and the dead end.

Cullum; that a sign requesting speed to be reduced be placed on the Washington avenue viaduct for traffic headed in a westerly direction. At present, he said, trucks travel at excessive speed down the incline.

Norton; that a loading zone be established in front of the business place of Abraham Cohen, 15 Hasbrouck avenue.

The Bootleggers' Revenge!

Asheville, N. C. (AP)—Two men charged with setting forest fires told authorities they were angry at revenue agents raiding stills in the area.

In Time for Study

Alderman Benjamin Storms (R) Second ward, said he wanted "to set the record straight" on the budget. He called attention to the fact that the budget, prepared by former Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, was ready in time for study by and suggestions from the aldermen, and that it was given proper public hearing.

"We of the finance committee," he said, "studied the budget item by item, and he said, they called others in for advice and explanation when they considered it necessary.

"Talking in generalities is one thing," he held, "and talking facts is another." Here he called attention to one alderman (Ryan) who said that the bonus to city employes is not enough, but, he noted, no one came through with a plan showing how to do better. This, he held, was a "complex question."

Provision Questioned

Ryan had questioned an increased provision for the city buildings fund, a special fund of $3,500 for the BPW, and $1,000 to the education department for use of bleechers.

Storms said the funds as presented were all a matter of bookkeeping and, noting that all the aldermen had time "to think it over," he proposed, "if anyone has a concrete plan tonight, we'll sit down and listen."

Cole said he felt the "offer is too late," and Storms recalled the public hearing and said the finance committee held not one, but four meetings on the budget. "If anyone had a concrete plan," he said, "they could have presented it and we would have listened."

Alderman Storms said he did not want to give the impression that the finance committee did not work harmoniously in considering the budget—"we gave it all we had," and worked together, he said.

Tells of Conferences

Alderman Robert Cullum, 12th ward (R) another member of the committee told of conferences with heads of various city departments, and speaking of the $1,000 item earmarked to the education board for bleachers, he said the aldermen had until July to work on that and he felt something could be done about it.

Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, at one point, reminded the aldermen in their discussion on the budget that nobody had brought out "how much we would have to cut the budget to bring it down $1," and to this Storms replied about $33,000. Alderman Abram D. Relyea reminded the aldermen that the affairs of the city of Kingston represent the conduct of a big business and therefore is subject to such trends as are in big business today.

Two Speak From Floor

Kelly offered the privilege of the floor to Mrs. Nellie V. Osterhoudt, 133 St. James street and Mrs. Adele Bregman of 126 Broadway.

Mrs. Osterhoudt said she thought taxes were "much too high," while "we on the verge of a depression." She cited the raising of city salaries at this time, and stressed "I think it's ridiculous to pay the taxes we are paying at this time. I think something should be done about it."

Mrs. Bregman, in general, repeated her comment of the meeting a week ago. She was sure the budget could be revised "so that we don't have to pay that much."

President Says

derogatory information on their record.

7. Said he advocated stripping convicted Communist conspirators of U. S. citizenship because he believes a conspirator is just as guilty as anyone who actually attempts to overthrow the government by force.

Has No Significance

8. Told the newsmen no significance should be read into the fact that he did not renew his call this year, in the State of the Union Message, for revision of the McCarran - Walter Immigration law. Eisenhower noted that he said in the message he would deal with some other matters in subsequent documents. He added that recommendations dealing with the immigration law have not yet been submitted to him by the government departments concerned.

9. Said there has been a lot of apprehension about the administration program to channel defense contracts into unemployment areas. Eisenhower said there particularly has been exaggeration along the line that entire contracts would go to such areas, rather than only 20 to 30 per cent of the total of individual contracts.

10. Smilingly confided that he believes women have the brains and the ability to occupy the presidency, but said he doubts whether they would like the job. That was a comment on former President Truman's remark that a woman might be president some day.

11. Repeated that he believes Alaska is not ready for statehood.

Cold Wave Freezes Vessels in River

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Various vessels were reported icebound today in the upper Hudson river as a cold wave held its grip on the east.

The coast guard ordered its icebreaker West Wind to proceed from the Brooklyn Navy Yard to clear channel ice and to assist icebound vessels in the Albany area.

A survey by the coast guard reported these conditions at 11 a. m. (EST):

Albany—River traffic slow, but moving.

Frozen at Saugerties

Saugerties—Ice two to six inches thick, bank to bank; not navigable to low powered vessels.

Esopus meadows—Solid and windblown ice bank to bank; six to ten inches thick; no open water, navigable to high powered vessels only.

Cole Starts 28th Year as Executive Of Musical Union

At the annual meeting at the union headquarters on Albany avenue, John A. Cole was elected to start his 28th year as an executive of Local 215, American Federation of Musicians.

Cole, a local realtor, was unanimously relected to his eighth term as president of the local, which he served previously as secretary for 20 years.

In his acceptance speech, President Cole thanked the various committees and officers for their cooperation during his tenure of office, and appealed for the same support in the ensuing year.

The panel of officers reelected to serve with Cole consists of, Salvatore Castiglione, vice-president; William Steuding, treasurer and Michael Marchuk, secretary.

Trustees elected were Peter Ferraro, chairman; John Napoleon and Donald Pierson.

To Assist President

Clementine Nessel succeeds herself as assistant to the president, having been honored with appointment to that post.

In lauding the membership for its cooperation, President Cole stressed that it was the major factor in making decisions satisfactory to management and labor.

Reports on Projects

Cole thanked Peter Ferraro for his "spendid job" in administering the performance trust fund as chairman. Through the fund enjoyment and entertainment was furnished in hospitals and aided community projects in Ulster, Greene, Orange, Delaware and Sullivan counties, the territory within the jurisdiction of Local 215.

"Thousands of dollars were spent through the fund," President Cole said on free dances, concerts and musical programs. He added that many more thousands will be spent in the ensuing year.

In concluding, President Cole expressed his gratitude for the "kindness and understanding of our problems as shown by officials and citizens of our community."
